GOP CHIEF DENIES HE IS NOT BEHIND THE ENTIRE SLATE

Committeeman Declares He Has Not Withheld Support, Funds

Chicago, Oct. 25.—(AP)—George F. Harding, Republican national committeeman, denied today a Democratic assertion that he wasn't supporting the ticket headed by Richard J. Lyons for Senator. "I'm for the ticket from top to bottom," Harding told an audience in his home ward as Lyons sat on the platform.

At one of the rallies for the Scott W. Lucas Democratic ticket last week, Alderman J. M. Arvey, Chicago campaign manager, declared Harding and Charles B. Goodspeed of Chicago, Republican national treasurer, were withholding support and funds from the G. O. P. slate.

Harding denied the allegation and asked for the election of Republicans to combat the New Deal, which he denounced.

Both Parties Active

Both parties kept their metropolitan campaign machinery in high gear, with Governor Horner, Mayor Kelly, senatorial nominee Lucas and Arvey appearing together last night at a west side meeting of Democratic precinct captains. The last of their four big organization sessions is to be held tonight.

Lucas, who has the harmony backing of the Democratic factional meetings, said President Roosevelt "made the Constitution a living, breathing document applicable to everyday lives of our 130,000,000 people."

"Since 1933, we in America have been making democracy work," Lucas said. "We have kept alive our bill of rights and have safeguarded its guarantees of free speech, free assembly, freedom of education and freedom of religious choice. We are marching toward economic security without sacrificing civil liberties."

Brooks Supports Lyons

C. Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for governor in 1936, came to the support of Lyons, terming him a "distinguished, progressive legislator."

The New Deal, Brooks said in a radio address, has "frightened business, thrown the nation into confusion, retarded progress and caused unemployment."

Lyons went on the air also last night with an assertion that Lucas as congressman "shoved around" and was unfriendly toward a 1936 delegation seeking higher old age pensions.

The Republican said the governor and Lucas were "counterfeit humanitarians" on the pension issue, alleging the state administration amended the original law to reduce individual payments while increasing political control. He said the state can afford $30 minimum payments on the broader basis advocated by the Republicans.

Promises Greater Supervision

Wiley B. Garvin, Republican nominee for superintendent of public instruction, in a speech here promised greater supervision over the Chicago school board and attacked its president, James B. McCahey.

A group of Republican congressional candidates, meeting yesterday with Lyons and State Chairman A. K. Stiles, summarized their campaign issues in this manner:

1. Abolish jitters, provide jobs.
2. Crush communism.
3. Place legislative government back in balance.
4. Old age pensions.
5. Defend representative government.
6. Adequate national defense, but mind our own business.
7. Adequate relief for the needy, graft for none.
8. Protect farm prices and farm markets from foreign imports.
9. Protect American workers from competition with cheap foreign-manufactured products and guarantee workers a fair deal."

Decatur Woman's Body Found; Husband Missing

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Clara Morrison, 45, wife of a Wabash railroad conductor, was found in their home today, her head battered.

Two hours later police found the coat of her husband, Lee Morrison, on the shore of Lake Decatur. Police Chief J. H. Schepper said a wallet in the coat contained a note which requested all property to be left to a daughter, Elaine, "to pay debts."

Chief Schepper said the note also said "she drove me insane, criticizing me and then picking on me, and I can't stand it."

No trace of Morrison was found.

It's a Bit Thick
London, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Londoners groped their way to work today in fog so thick that even dogs got lost.

Road, rail, sea and air traffic was slowed to a crawl or stopped in grimy darkness that blanketed a 40-mile circle around the capital.

Six greyhounds racing at the north London track lost their way on a far curve and kennel boys had to go out to find them.

HUNGARIANS TAKE SOFTER ATTITUDE ON FIRM ADVICES

Germany, Italy, Poland Inspire Moderation in Czech Dispute

Budapest, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles said today that pressure by Germany, Italy and Poland inspired the moderation of Hungarian demands in a new offer to Czechoslovakia to compromise their territorial quarrel.

The Hungarian government cut its territorial demands by about 30 per cent in a note which the Prague government was requested to answer by tomorrow.

This friendlier attitude developed, diplomatic informants understood, upon the strong advice of the three governments to avoid pressing demands upon Czechoslovakia that would endanger peace.

Until yesterday Hungary had refused to decrease demands for large areas of Czechoslovakia inhabited by Magyars.

May Reject New Note

Informed persons here thought it likely Prague would reject even the compromise note. In that event, Premier Imredy said Hungary would "enforce its justice by all means available to the nation."

The offer, seventh to be advanced from Budapest, deals with four points:

1. Hungarian troops without delay would occupy Czechoslovak areas over which there now is no dispute. This would be about 3,860 square miles.
2. Plebiscites would be held in disputed districts by December 1.
3. Ruthenians, Slovaks (now autonomous parts of Czechoslovakia) and other nationalities of Czechoslovakia would be given the right of "self-determination," presumably by an election to determine to what country they would give allegiance.
4. If Czechoslovakia cannot accept these points, a German-Polish-Italian commission would arbitrate the dispute.

Local Service Station Scene of Bold Robbery

The Louis Olmstead service station on Everett street and Upham Place was the scene of a bold robbery this morning about 9:30, when the cash box in the safe was emptied. The proprietor was engaged in greasing a car at the rear of the station and when he stepped into the office, he discovered that the cash box which had contained about $30 had been emptied.

The incident was immediately reported to the police and an investigation started. Mr. Olmstead reported that he had not observed any persons loitering about the station and Chief Van Bibber had passed only a short time before the robbery was discovered.

Tommy Van Nuys Very Ill After Operation

Little Tommy Van Nuys, age 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Van Nuys of 204 Chamberlain, lies in Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital critically ill. He submitted to an operation for appendicitis on Sunday. Last night his condition was very low but this morning he rallied somewhat, although today there is great concern over the gravity of his illness.

Cribs on Illinois Farms Hold About 24 Per Cent Of Nation's Reserve Of Corn

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Cribs on Illinois farms hold approximately 24 per cent of the huge national reserve of more than 352,000,000 bushels of corn from last year's crop, the state and federal departments of agriculture estimated today.

The carry-over of old corn being held on Illinois farms was estimated at 554,045,000 bushels, largest since 1933.

ROBERT HUTCHINS SAYS SYSTEM OF EDUCATION WEAK

President of University Declares Methods Fail To Develop Thought

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, today criticized the modern educational system as "a large-scale housing venture" which fails to develop freedom of thought.

To this lack of freedom he ascribed the major ills of the modern world.

Dr. Hutchins' address, "The Free Mind," was delivered to the first session of the New York Herald Tribune 1938 forum on current problems.

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks

The opening address was delivered by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who spoke to the forum by radio from Cincinnati on "Youth's Contribution in Keeping the mind of the Nation Young."

Dr. Hutchins described two opposing theories of the state: on the one hand, anarchy; on the other, the doctrine that the state is supreme over man.

"This is fascism," he said. "It ascribes to the political organization qualities that can belong only to God. It denies the eminent dignity of the person."

"Any state in which the common good is sacrificed to private interests, or in which the moral, intellectual and spiritual good of the citizens is sacrificed to the political organization is not a state. It is a fraud subsisting by force."

Concerned With Free Minds

"We are concerned this morning with free minds. How can we get them? We must remember that it is not freedom from something that we are seeking. We want minds that are free because they understand the order of goods and can achieve them in their order. The proper task of education is the production of such minds."

"When we say we want free minds, we mean that we want minds able to operate well. The glory and weakness of the human is that it is not determinate to certain things. It may range at will over the good and the bad. To be free to operate well, therefore, the mind requires habits that fix it on the good. x x x The free mind is first of all the disciplined mind. The first step in education is to give the mind good habits."

Next Step.

"The next step in the education of free minds is the understanding of what is good. The mind cannot be free if it is a slave to what is bad."

"The great problem of our time is moral, intellectual and spiritual. With a superfluity of goods we are sinking into poverty. With a multitude of gadgets we are no happier than we were before. With a declining death rate we have yet to discover what we should do with our lives. With a hatred of war we are heading inevitably toward it. With a love of liberty, we see much of the world in chains."

Basic Problems.

"How can these things be? They can be because we have directed our lives and our education to means instead of ends. We have been concerned with the transitory and superficial instead of the enduring and basic problems of life and of society."

Mrs. Roosevelt, in her address, said: "If we are going to keep ourselves ready to face the world

INAUGURATE PLAN OF CLOSING MANY GRADE CROSSINGS

Five Years Required for Program to Show Any Real Results

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—With a $5,000,000 program already under way, the state highway department has inaugurated a five year plan for permanent closing of many of Illinois' 18,000 highway-railroad grade crossings.

Chief Engineer Ernst Lieberman submitted to the state planning commission an outline of the plan, showing crossing-closing agreements would be sought with many cities in return for which the state would agree to improve other crossings whose use would be increased.

No Inconvenience

Lieberman estimated that in medium size cities half the existing grade crossings could be closed without public inconvenience. A board of five representatives of the highway department and the Illinois Commerce Commission has been set up to contact city authorities throughout the state.

"Illinois is in the unfortunate position of having more railroad-highway grade crossings than any other state," Lieberman's report said. Of the 18,000 Illinois now has, only about 20 per cent, or 3,500 are protected by watchmen or by automatic signals.

Lieberman informed the commission the plan is for the newly created board headed by Alfred Benesch, the highway department's engineer of grade separations to seek agreements with cities for closing little-used streets which have grade crossings. The commerce commission then would enter orders for their closing.

Reason for Plan

The highway department and the planning commission, whose chairman is Robert L. Kingery, former state director of Public Works and Buildings, decided upon the plan to close as many crossings as possible because a program of adequate protection would cost at least $45,000,000.

Five years will be required for the new program to show "real results," Lieberman said, because of opposition of local groups and in some instances of local officials to the street closings.

Complementing this program, the state has under construction 41 grade crossing separations costing $3,842,000 and an additional hundred projects for signal installation and other grade crossing protection. Since Jan. 1, 1933, the report said, the state has completed 218 grade separations at a cost of $21,734,255.

Rockford Bishop Will Join Roman Pilgrimage
Chicago, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Catholic clergymen of the Middle West were preparing today to join thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the world in St. Peter's Cathedral, Rome, on November 15 at beatification ceremonies for venerable Mother Cabrini.

George Cardinal Mundelein will leave Chicago tomorrow and sail Saturday. The cardinal, archbishop of Chicago, will assist Pope Pius XI at the ceremonies.

Among those accompanying the cardinal will be the Most Reverend Edward F. Hoban, bishop of Rockford, Ill., and the Most Reverend William R. Griffen, auxiliary bishop of La Crosse, Wis.

CZECH PLANE ATTACKED
London, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A Reuters (British News Agency) dispatch from Prague today said a Czechoslovak military plane had been attacked by two Hungarian planes and brought down in flames. The pilot was wounded and the plane destroyed, the dispatch said. The incident was said to have occurred at Velke Meder, southeast of Bratislava about 7 1/2 miles inside the Czechoslovak border.

He'll Eat Now

WAGE-HOUR STRIKE
Haverstraw, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(AP)—One hundred and ten employees of the Long Life Webbing Company went on strike today protesting the company's new wage and hour arrangement.

Strikers charged the company proposed to reduce the hourly wages to a point where the men would receive no benefits from the time-and-half scale of pay for overtime over 44 hours, but actually would receive the same pay as they have been getting.

Warmer Temperatures Follow Light Frost
Chicago, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Warmer temperatures spread over the Middle West today in the wake of light to heavy frost. Fair skies were general.

The warmth was forecast to continue through today and tomorrow with cooler readings predicted for late tomorrow afternoon in the western section of the North Central states.

A high of 65 was forecast for today in Chicago and 68 for tomorrow before the mercury starts to fall.

Low temperatures of yesterday and last night included 36 at Peoria, Ill., and Fort Wayne, Ind.; 32 at Charles City, Iowa, and 28 at Wausau, Wis.

Victim of "Shag"
Sparta, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The "shag" has claimed another victim.

Modest Sea Captain Who Took Time For Dressing Faces Charges of Negligence
Seattle, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A modest sea captain, who took time to dress rather than appear before passengers in his underwear when his ship ran aground, sought to defend himself today against negligence charges.

The charges were filed by a federal investigating board after Captain Andrew J. Borkland of the Seattle-Alaska steamer North Coast testified it took him nine minutes to reach the bridge when the ship grounded in fog October 8.

In the interim, he changed from sleeping garb of underwear to a captain's uniform because he would not look "very nice" otherwise before passengers, he said.

The ship, which grounded near Cape Mudge, was refloated without mishap.

Captain Borkland's chief defense was that the crew heard no fog horn warnings from Cape Mudge.

Recommendations of the board will be sent to Washington, D. C.

GEORGE HUYETT IS VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK LAST EVE

George J. Huyett, a life long resident of Lee county, and since 1921 foreman in charge of the garage department at the state highway headquarters, died very suddenly last evening about 11 o'clock, of an acute heart attack. He had retired a short time before he was seized.

Mr. Huyett was born in Franklin Grove March 7, 1892, and the greater part of his life was spent in Dixon. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Huyett of this city. Coroner K. B. Segner conducted an inquiry this morning at 10 o'clock at the Preston funeral home, at which time it developed that Mr. Huyett had been an acute sufferer with a heart ailment.

Funeral services will be conducted from the residence, 118 East McKinney street Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. George Nielson, pastor of the Grace Evangelical church will officiate and interment will be in Oakwood.

POSTAL COMPANY CONTINUES PLAN TO LAY OFF BOYS

Official Declares It Is Necessary to Protect Financial Status

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Postal Telegraph Company continued today its plan to lay off 1,000 messengers as the American Communications Association (C. I. O.) pressed its orders for a "slow down" of work in an effort to obtain a 44-hour week from the company under the new Wage-and-Hour Act.

C. B. Alsopp, vice president in charge of commercial departments of Postal, announced the lay-off last night, saying the company found it necessary to "protect its financial position."

Recently the company petitioned Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, for permission to pay its messengers less than the 25-cent-an-hour minimum required under the act. Alsopp said the layoff decision was reached without consultation with the Western Union Telegraph Company, which also had asked exemption.

Slows Up Service

Leaders of the American Communications Association claimed its "slow down" order had retarded the handling of messages from 60 to 60 per cent. The company, it was said, maintains a work week of slightly more than 46 hours.

The labor leaders claimed 13,000 of the company's 17,000 employees were involved in the "slow down."

Alsopp said his company was "forced" into the lay-off action as "the only course we could follow." The lay-off began last night, he said, and will be completed in two or three days. The company employs about 6,500 messengers, of whom about 1,000 are in New York.

SAYS WITCHCRAFT DEATH FOR COURT NOT FOR A CLINIC
Houghton, Mich., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Dollar Bay witchcraft slaying of 20-year-old Marian Doyle, Prosecutor Frank C. Condon said today, is a case for criminal court rather than the psychiatric clinic.

The prosecutor said he intended to proceed against Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Pichette on charges of murder and would present a new theory of the killing.

Justice John McCarthy issued murder warrants against the couple yesterday.

The prosecutor said he had no present intention of seeking sanity tests for the Pichettes, accused of beating their young housekeeper to death with a flatiron and a stove poker.

Pichette was held in a padded cell at the Houghton county jail. His wife was in one of the regular cells. Jail attendants said the husband appeared incoherent and spent much of his time mumbling to himself.

Prosecutor Condon declined to elaborate on his new theory as to the motive behind the slaying but said the self-styled "Son of Jehovah" was "more sane than he pretends to be."

Left Cargo of Silver
The Dollar liner President Coolidge sailed today for Kobe, Japan, without a $4,000,000 cargo of silver intended for the United States. Japanese officials had refused to clear the American ship until the cargo was unloaded. They apparently considered the treasure the property of the Japanese-sponsored Shanghai government. Diplomatic negotiations were expected to determine its ownership.

HANKOW AFLAME; CHINESE FORCES ABANDON CAPITAL

Capture of City Was the Major Goal of Japan Since Nanking Fell

Shanghai, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Japanese army and navy commands tonight announced that their forces had entered Hankow, China's provisional capital, abandoned by its defenders.

Japanese officers said units of both services had participated in the capture of the great city on the Middle Yangtze river, major goal of the Japanese conquest since Nanking fell nearly 11 months ago.

Neutral advices reaching Shanghai said retreating Chinese troops demolished several buildings. Large fires were reported in Hankow and adjoining cities of Wuchang and Hanyang. The city was without water, but a foreign-owned power company which was permitted to take over the waterworks was attempting to resume service.

Patrols of British bluejackets cooperated with Chinese police in keeping order before entry of the Japanese.

The first detachment to enter apparently was an infantry column, which previously had captured Hwanpei, 20 miles to the north, and then driven rapidly down the Peiping-Hankow railway.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, military and civil leader of the Chinese nation, was reported to have left Hankow by plane during the night, accompanied by his foremost aide, his American-educated wife.

Announcement of the Japanese entry into Hankow was made in a joint communiqué from China headquarters of the Japanese army and navy.

Naval officers said they believed Japanese warships had reached the great inland port, 585 miles up the Yangtze, although exact positions of the vessels was not disclosed. Since Nanking's fall the navy has co-operated with the army in blasting a pathway up the river.

Adv Advance Was Rapid

The last stages of the Japanese advance were made with such rapidity—overland from the northeast, along both banks of the Yangtze and up the river itself—that large units of Chinese were cut off.

The rapidly-driving Japanese columns were said to have left several divisions in pockets to be cleaned up later, as motorized vanguards with tanks sped toward the doomed Chinese capital.

Is Sixth Great Conquest

Hankow (which, with its sister Wuhan cities of Wuchang and Hanyang, had a pre-war population of about 1,700,000) was the sixth great Chinese city to fall to the invaders.

Peiping and Tientsin were taken in the first weeks of the war that began July 7, 1937; Shanghai fell November 9 and Nanking—Hankow's predecessor as Chinese capital—December 13. Canton, metropolis of the south, fell Friday.

Only lesser cities, mostly far in the interior, remain in Chinese hands.

Whether Japan would be content to rest on her present conquests, thus opening a period of undeclared peace, remained a subject for conjecture tonight.

Withdrawal of the Chinese defenders "for strategic reasons" apparently spared Hankow the bloodshed which marked the capture of Nanking. There was no need for a final grand assault such as that by which the Mikado's armies blasted their way into the walls of Nanking.

Saved Chinese Armies

The greater part of the Chinese armies managed to retreat to the westward, their commanders explaining this was in accordance with a decision to prolong resistance and not risk annihilation of their best units in defense of the Wuhan area.

According to the latest estimates approximately 400,000 persons, including some 1,000 foreigners, remained in the three Wuhan cities when the Japanese arrived, less than a quarter of the normal population.

Meanwhile, the Japanese occupied Tsungfa, 33 miles north of Canton.

EIGHTEEN PERSONS DIE IN AUSTRALIAN AIRLINER ACCIDENT

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Eighteen persons, including a member of the Australian Parliament, were killed today in the Dominion's worst airliner crash on mist-shrouded Mount Dandenong, 40 miles southeast of Melbourne.

Seven persons were thrown from the cabin. The others were trapped in the ship, which burned.

C. Hawker, member of the house of representatives and a former minister of commerce; L. S. Abrahams and A. V. Gain, prominent Sydney attorneys, were among the victims.

The machine, with crew of four including a hostess, was bound from Adelaide to Melbourne. It was operated by the Australian National Airways.

A storekeeper at the town of Kiorama said he heard the plane roaring through the mist.

"A few seconds later I heard an awful crash and ran out of the store," he related. "I could see the wreck not far away. It was smashed to smithereens and blazing like mad."

Of Interest to Farmers

CHICAGO STOCK SHOW WILL OPEN ON NOVEMBER 23

Event Will Climax the Season For Farmers Of the Mid-West

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Heading the schedule of events on Chicago's fall calendar is the International Live Stock Exposition and Horse Show, which will be held here this year November 26 to December 3.

Stockmen and farmers from many states and Canada have already sent entries for live stock and crops they will exhibit this year in the competitions of this largest of the continent's live stock shows. Cash prizes will total over $100,000 in contests featuring 30 different breeds of horses, cattle, sheep and swine.

Climaxes Show Season
Ever since the first International show in 1900, the exposition has opened on the first Saturday after Thanksgiving, a calendar position that has made it both the close and climax of the continent's agricultural fair season.

Since a majority of the herds and flocks that are exhibited at the Chicago exposition have been prize winners at county and state fairs and sectional exhibitions, held earlier in the year throughout this country and Canada, the International Live Stock Show has long stood as a court of last resort, where winning animals are accorded the highest honor that the show ring can bestow.

The exposition will be held in the new International Amphitheatre at the east entrance to the Chicago Stock Yards. The building covers six acres of exhibit area and was built to meet the special needs of the show after which it is named.

Farm Crops Featured
This year will mark the 20th anniversary of the International Grain and Hay Show, a department of the live stock exposition. The crops show is the largest competitive exhibition of its kind in the world, and farmers from nearly every state in the Union and province of Canada are expected to take part in this event this year.

According to B. H. Heide, the show's secretary-manager, the advance entry of both live stock and crops is the largest in its history, and plans are being made to receive approximately 14,000 head of live stock at the 1938 exposition.

Waukegan Youth Dies As Result of Strange Automobile Accident

Lake Forest, Ill., Oct. 25. — (AP)—Viti Stukus, 18, a senior in the Waukegan, Ill., high school, was injured fatally near here Sunday in an unusual automobile accident.

Stukus had been riding with two other men, Leo Japoulos and Eugene Worack. Their automobile ran out of gasoline on busy Skokie highway. They were attempting to push the machine down the road with Stukus on the left side of the steering wheel.

Another machine driven by Leo J. Voell, Jr., of Milwaukee, Wis., attempted to pass the stalled machine. It struck the rear of the Stukus automobile and careened into Stukus. He was tossed 20 feet away. Stukus died a short time later in a Lake Forest hospital.

Voell was arrested on a charge of manslaughter, but was released under $10,000 bond. The inquest will be held at 3:30 P. M. Tuesday.

12,000 Pounds of Meat Ordered for Husking Contest of the State

This year's Illinois State Corn Husking contest will be held on Oct. 31 at the Moffet farm at Modesto, Illinois. A crowd of 75,000 people is expected and 120 acres have been reserved as parking space and 80 acres of field for airplanes.

There will be 14 eating concessions and contracts have been let for 12,000 pounds of meat, 12,000 pies and 6,000 gallons of coffee. The corn yields 90 bushels and is of the hybrid type. The length of corn rows is 36 rods and width of rows is 3 feet 2 inches.

Last year's champion, Rose, expects to break the world's record. Twelve contestants will be entered.

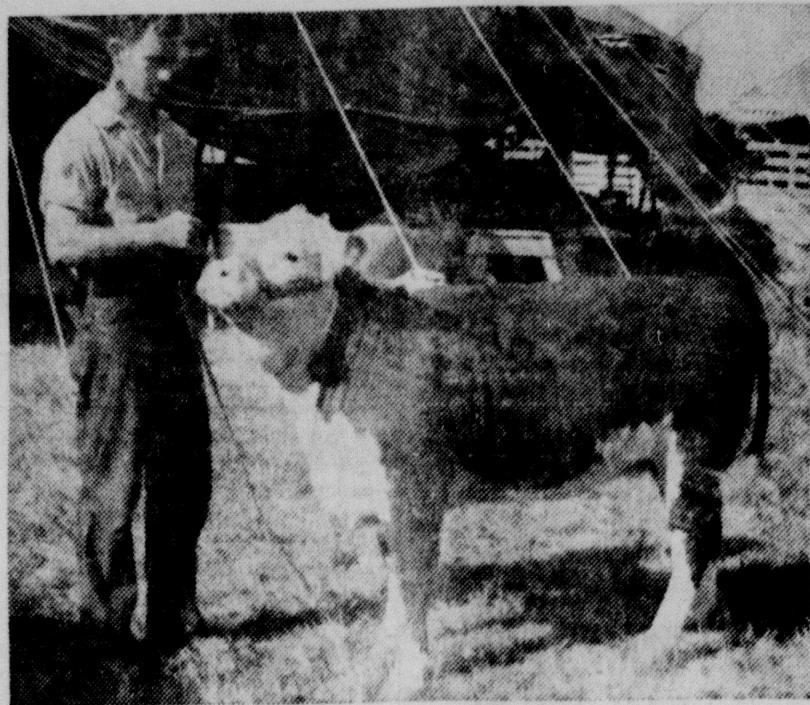

Entertainment will be by bands, radio artists and local talent. A parade begins at 10:30 A. M. One thousand committeemen and 1,500 helpers make this event possible.

WHY WORKING GIRLS STAY THIN

A girl or woman receiving $18 a week pays $116 a year in hidden taxes. Six weeks of her work out of each fifty-two go to tax collectors. She pays for government spending at the rate of thirty-two cents a day—more than she can afford to pay for her lunch.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

When you sell hogs or cattle, they are graded not only according to their weight but also according to their quality. Common to fair . . . fair to good . . . good to choice . . . and so on.

There is just as much difference in poultry as there is in cattle and hogs. Why shouldn't poultry be graded for quality, too? I have been advocating it for years and certainly those of you who are raising fine chickens should be in favor of it.

That is the only way you will ever get full value for them. Those who buy poultry and sell it—live or dressed—on the market sell it on both a weight and quality grade. It seems to me that the persons who produce the good chickens are entitled to the premium they bring.

There has been a lot of talk among dealers recently about whether they should grade poultry for quality. Some of them are doing it. Others are not, principally because they say their customers object to it. I can understand why people who have very ordinary chickens might object, because under the present system they are able to sell their birds for more than they are actually worth—at the expense of those who are producing good poultry.

Ask for Quality Grading
If I were you, and had good chickens, I would not only welcome quality grading, I'd ask for it.

Grading for weight has become a fairly common practice in the last few years and we have seen it work to the advantage of those who breed and raise good chickens.

Right now 5-pound hens are quoted 7 cents a pound higher than 3-pound hens. This is a larger spread than usual. The reason for it probably lies in the fact that most of the hens being sold now are light weight birds that aren't producing. People who are wise are keeping the good layers, most of which come in the 5-pound class. As a result, the ones that are being sold are bringing a little higher premium than usual.

Five-pound springs are worth 3 to 3½ cents more than 3-pound birds. There again is an example of how grading for weight has worked to the advantage of the person who was raising good chickens.

Grading for quality will be even more to your advantage.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Priebe

When the Spaniards first introduced the white potato into Europe in the early 16th century, people were prejudiced against it, believing that it was the original fruit that Eve nibbled in the Garden of Eden.

They Laughed at His Trick, But It Worked
Washington, Oct. 25—(AP)—Bill Reinhart—the football coach who sent his George Washington team through Christmas shoppers to teach them footwork—beamed like a Santa Claus today.

"Some people laughed," said Bill, "when the boys went out last December and hit the shopping line. We may lose all the rest of our games, but look what we've done to date."

George Washington university is one of the nation's few teams which has been undefeated, untied and unscored on.

Gained 1,040 yards rushing to opponents' 247.

Completed 10 out of 31 passes, five of which were good for touchdowns.

Who accounts for most of George Washington's scores and gains? A 160-pound halfback Sampson, and big Bob Novaskey, from Watseka, Ill., named Vic end.

REPLACE YOUR SMOOTH WORN TIRES AND BE SAFE

LAST year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 40,000 men, women and children and nearly a million and a quarter more were injured. More than 52,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to smooth, worn, unsafe tires. A recent survey discloses that 59 million tires now in use are, or will become, smooth this year. Do your part to make driving safer. Replace smooth tires on your car. Come in today and equip with Firestone Convoy Tires and save 25%.

FIRESTONE CAN GIVE YOU SUCH A HIGH QUALITY TIRE AT SUCH A NEW LOW PRICE

Because Firestone saves money by controlling and securing rubber and cotton at the source and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution. These savings make possible more extra values at low prices:

New High Quality—First choice rubber and cotton selected that conforms to Firestone's high standards and rigid specifications.

Long Mileage—Safe, silent tread design made of tough, slow wearing rubber that assures long mileage. Sturdy bars and rugged notches give protection against skidding.

Blowout Protection—Nine extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone Patented Gum-Dipping process. Every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber which counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Puncture Protection—Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread protects against punctures.

Come in today. Let us put a set of these large size, rugged, long wearing Firestone Convoy Tires on your car—remember, you save 25%.

LEE CENTER NEWS

By Mrs. W. S. Frost.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Anderson and baby of Amboy will move into the Clarence Marty apartment the fore part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Halsey and family of Wilmer, Minn., visited at the Rena Walsey, Frank Stebbens and Byrd McCalister homes last week.

Mrs. Esther Kaisted and family and Mrs. Freda Moenison motored to Chicago Thursday morning and spent the week end there, returning home Sunday evening.

Katherine Dunseth stepped into hole in the yard Sunday, badly wrenching her ankle. The attending physician ordered her to rest in bed for several days and she is staying at the home of her brother, Earl and his wife in the Schnell apartment house.

Mrs. C. A. Leager and Mrs. G. M. Finch of Amboy spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Earl Carlson.

Mrs. J. Young of Oregon was taking magazine subscriptions for the Legion Auxiliary here Wednesday.

The Bradford and Lee Center units of the Home Bureau were well represented at the Play Day in Amboy Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Olmstead of Ottawa and Woodstock were overnight guests at the C. A. Ullrich home Saturday night.

A card sent from Philadelphia by Mrs. A. F. Jeanblanc says that she and her daughter, Mrs. Edith Miller have visited many historic places in that city after spending four days in Washington, D. C., attending the Ligon family reunion. Mrs. Miller is employed as a commercial artist in New York City where the 1939 World's Fair is being constructed and they were also sightseeing there.

Mrs. W. S. Frost entertained the Past Matrons contract bridge club last Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. L. E. Bates held high score. Mrs. W. J. Leake second. Mrs. P. S. Flach was low and Mrs. Herbert Parker received the guest prize. A lunch was served. Mrs. Flach will entertain the club at the next meeting, Nov. 15.

Mrs. A. J. Carlson was given a party in honor of her birthday last Wednesday by her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Finn at her home in Amboy. Various games were enjoyed and the hostess served a delicious lunch. Those who attended from here were Mrs. Elinor Sandberg, Mrs. Linda Brasel, Mrs. Mary M. Richardson, Mrs. Hattie Lippincott.

Mrs. Mattie Hausen, local delegate to the Rebekah State Assembly gave an interesting report of that meeting in Springfield at the lodge Friday evening.

Miss Ruth Slaymaker and Chester Burns of Erie were callers here Friday. The former was the primary teacher here for several years.

Carolyn Frost of Amboy spent Thursday and Friday at the W. S. Frost home.

Rebekah Galloping Teas were held at the George P. Miller,

THERE IS ONLY ONE ANSWER

Why does Scott W. Lucas, Democratic candidate for United States senator, refuse persistently to debate on the same platform with Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate? There is only one answer. Mr. Lucas is afraid to debate.

Such beating 'round the mulberry bush as the Democratic candidate has resorted to will deceive no one except those with their spoons already in the Democratic gravy, and they don't need to be converted. Those honestly searching for enlightenment would get it if they could attend a Lyons-Lucas debate, but Lucas refuses to help them. They might get some information if Lucas would answer some of the many questions propounded by Lyons, but Lucas refuses.

Knox college at Galesburg two weeks ago observed the 80th anniversary of the Lincoln-Douglas debate in that city, and sponsors of the commemoration decided a good feature of the program would be a Lyons-Lucas debate. Lucas had an opportunity to cover himself with glory but he refused. Lucas agreed, however, to speak from the same platform, but only if debate were barred, and if Lyons spoke first.

Why didn't Mr. Lucas want Lyons to speak last? Because he feared Lyons would destroy his straw man.

The following night both Lucas and Lyons were scheduled to speak at Monmouth, and again Lucas declined to debate. In fact, Lucas cancelled his appearance. Harry B. Hershey, state Democratic chairman, explained weakly that Lucas stayed away so that Lyons could be assured of an audience.

The campaign will wind up in Cook county, where a Lyons-Lucas debate no doubt would be welcomed, and in all probability Mr. Lyons will again call for joint debate.

One observer has remarked that Illinois produced Abraham Lincoln, who was no yes-man, and among other Republican notables it produced Uncle Joe Cannon, who certainly was no yes-man, and that now nothing would be finer for the state than a decision to turn its "Lyons" loose in the halls of congress.

MEDICAL 'SYSTEM' UNDER ATTACK

Recurring articles in popular magazines have been attacking what might be called the system under which medicine and surgery are practiced. In some cases legislation is recommended either in regard to fees or licensing.

It has been standard practice to require a medical education and proof thereof before one may hang out his shingle. Generally speaking, it is impossible to so legislate that every individual of the thousands of physicians will conform to whatever mold their critics may have in mind.

Medicine and surgery in general have worked wonders toward the advancement of health, prolongation of life and the saving of life, but it will be observed that most of these advancements were made in the absence of, or in spite of, hampering legislation and restrictions imposed by those who knew nothing of the science.

Most physicians are in the profession to earn a living, although few occupations offer better opportunities to cultivate idealism. In other words, physicians compete with one another, subject to their own code of ethics. To a certain extent this competition assures advancement of the profession. An incompetent doctor loses his patients.

The whole subject is confused. On one hand we hear complaints that doctors occasionally make an erroneous diagnosis, and on the other hand we hear that medicine is interfering with the rule of survival of the fittest by prolonging the lives of weaklings and the unfit.

We have no sympathy with any legislative proposals that would regiment the medical profession in some such manner as putting a certain number of families under the care of a certain physician or clinic. That would end medical competition.

As an example, we cite the experience of soldiers in the World War, who were regimented by companies or battalions under the care of a single medical officer. In cases where the medical officer was competent and conscientious the results were as good as could be expected. But in those instances where the officer practiced with bad results, the soldiers had no remedy. They found it impractical or impossible to change physicians. Soldiers can endure that in the army, if they survive at all, but such a system has no place among free people.

We hasten to add that the medical and surgical experience gained by the profession in the World War served to develop new techniques, especially in surgery, and the net result of the research and experience was highly beneficial. This was possible under peculiar circumstances that are not likely to be duplicated in civilian life.

IF PEACE WAS SAVED, WHY DO THEY RE-ARM?

If the four-power settlement of the Czech problem was worth all it cost because it brought peace to Europe, it is mortally queer that the re-armament program should be enjoying such thriving health right now.

A full fortnight after Mr. Chamberlain's dearly-bought "solution" to the crisis had gone into the records, a United Press survey showed that all the powers involved were polishing their guns just as feverishly as if the crisis were still ahead of them.

London announces that Britain will insist on parity with the strongest air force that may be created in Europe. Sir John Simon declares that preparedness is even more essential to Britain now than it was in 1914.

Simultaneously, Berlin declares that Germany has the world's strongest air force and aims to keep on having it, and German spokesmen point to the British declaration as proof that Germany must continue to rearm at top speed.

At the same time France votes $62,000,000 for new weapons and plans to extend the Maginot line all along the Swiss border. Belgium, meanwhile, announces a plan to throw a chain of heavy forts along both the French and German frontiers. And Russia goes ahead with an expensive plan to arm and defend the Ukraine.

Now all of this does not sound precisely like the inauguration of an era of peace and understanding. Bombing planes, tanks, warships and new army corps cost money, and in the ordinary course of things a nation does not buy them unless it figures it may have to use them. This new wave of re-armament is the clearest possible indication that the war-danger is not past.

This hardly jibes with all the fine things that were said after Chamberlain's last talk with Hitler. Yet there is nothing particularly surprising about it, after all. The world was tremendously relieved when the Czech crisis passed off without producing an immediate war; in its relief it assumed that the problem had been settled instead of merely being

WASHINGTON — When that shaggy-headed bell-wether of the Senate, William Edgar Borah, comes out for revision of the Neutrality Act, you can get a pretty good idea what Congress will do about it next session. Here is Borah's very positive comment:

"In the present state of the world, the cash and carry provisions, if continued, mean that Great Britain, Japan and Germany would be the chief beneficiaries of our Neutrality Act. I am emphatically opposed to that."

"If the policy of surrender established by Great Britain at Munich continues, the cash and carry provisions would favor no one but the militarist states."

Administration strategists, working on plans for neutrality revision, would like either to junk the entire act or else give the executive more discretion. Probably it will be the former.

Bruce Barton

According to Royce Powell: "Bruce Barton may not be presidential timber, but he's certainly a splinter in the side of the Democrats."

War Training

It is not supposed to be known yet, but as a further answer to Hitler's armament, Harry Hopkins' WPA is about to tackle one of the most serious weaknesses of the national defense—lack of trained technicians and mechanics.

The plan results from a confidential report to the President by Assistant War Secretary Louis Johnson that the Army was short 20,000 mechanics, and needed a system of training technicians as reserves.

He pointed out that "squads right" and "shoulder arms" was not as important to the modern soldier as being able to repair a truck and unjam a machine gun.

As a result, WPA's National Youth Administration soon will begin the training of mechanics as Army reserves. The NYA already conducts mechanical schools for unemployed youths, and these will be expanded and developed.

Graduates of these schools will have the chance of enlisting in the Army as non-commissioned officers, or of entering private industry as Army reserve mechanics.

GOPoor

GOPers are not saying anything about it publicly, but under the solace of a highball they will tell you that they are puzzled and disheartened at the difficulty of raising money for the national Republican war chest.

Lots of money is rolling into state and county campaigns, but getting the dough to meet the payroll at Republican National headquarters in Washington is like passing the hat among apple salesmen. GOP strategists give three reasons for this lack of lure:

1. The money donors are not sold on Chairman John Hamilton, and a little dubious about the Brain Trust chief Glenn Frank.
2. They complain that "the National Committee has no other policy other than 'We are against Roosevelt!'" They want some new policies as well as new leadership.
3. They would rather place their money in key States where they are sure it will do some good, rather than have it eaten up by the lush salaries of Chairman Hamilton and publicity director Franklin Waltham.

The last probably is the most important reason of all. Plenty of Republican money is evident in state fights. And many a wealthy Republican leader admits quite frankly that he is out to back Taft in Ohio, or Tobey in New Hampshire. In fact, some of them will even disclose how they dipped generously into their jeans to help Tydings in Maryland and George in Georgia.

In other words, if they see a chance of taking a good sock at the New Deal in a state campaign, the GOP moneyed boys will contribute and contribute heavily. The excuses they give to avoid contributing to the National postponed. Now it is beginning to see that it made a mistake.

If the Czech settlement had been achieved by a process of honest, straightforward negotiation, things might be different. But it wasn't. Force gained the victory there just as truly as if battle had actually been joined. Hitler got what he set out to get by threatening war. The settlement was a triumph for militarism and a clear-cut defeat for the theory that national quarrels should not be settled by force. What is happening now is simply the logical sequel. The way the Czech crisis was "solved" served notice on all Europe that—for the immediate future, at least—might makes right. The inevitable result is that the continent's progress toward a catastrophic war has been accelerated.

Soda Pop Helps Orphans Forget

Terror brought on by earlier experiences in war zones of Hankow still lurks in the eyes of these pathetic war-orphans refugees who found shelter and kindness in Hankow. Their brief moment of happiness with the soda pop bottles was shortlived as Japanese bombed Hankow and most of the terror-stricken population fled westward to the Chinese interior. Parents of these babes were killed during Japanese advance on outlying Hankow districts.

Committee are amazing, if not ingenious. One big Eastern industrialist, declining an invitation to give as little as $1,000, wrote:

"As you know, my daughter is a debutante and is coming out this month. Because of such large expenses, I must decline."

Bigotry

Some of the inner council strategists are urging the President to fire a blast at racial and religious intolerance in his November 4 campaign speech.

They are telling him that covert Republican attacks on Catholics, Jews and Negroes are being used to arouse opposition against New Deal candidates in a number of States, and that he could do much to scotch these vicious tactics by a red-hot denunciation.

One example of bigotry laid before Roosevelt is a booklet with pronounced anti-Semitic bias now being sent to Minnesota voters by the thousands to boost the Republican candidacy of Harold Stassen, running against Governor Elmer Benson, a Farmer-Laborite.

Author of the publication is Ray Chase, former Republican State Auditor and once an opponent of the late Governor Floyd Olson.

Note—An ironic sidelight is the fact that Stassen, a Czechoslovak, is himself a descendant of a minority race.

Merry-Go-Round

David Dubinsky, able little head of the powerful International Ladies Garment Workers Union, has been spending several days a week in Washington conferring with Administration leaders. Dubinsky is a strong advocate of peace between the AFL and CIO. . . When the Navy announced a free-for-all competition for designs for the "mosquito fleet," they were surprised to find among the entrants William B. Shearer, former big Navy lobbyist at the Geneva Naval Conference. Shearer boasts that he designed the first one-man torpedo boat. . . Secretary Wallace, jibed for heavy imports of corn from Argentina during 1935 and 1937, is now pointing with pride to the reverse: U. S. exported 100 million bushels in the fiscal year just closed. . . Charley Claunch, former sea-going secretary to the President, is now an usher in the White House. . . Some Latin-American diplomats are left dangling in Washington with no cable advices from their foreign office. They came to the State Department begging for news from home.

Cook County Election Registration Hits Top

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP)—An all-time record registration for an off-year election in Cook county was announced today by the election commission.

In the county 2,033,312 voters were registered. In 1934 there were 1,709,231 names on the books.

In the city itself a new high of 1,718,853 was recorded against 1,461,041 four years ago.

The greatest registration in the county was for the 1936 presidential election, when 2,103,070 citizens were eligible to vote.

NOTED PHYSICIAN GIVES NEW FACTS ABOUT SYPHILIS

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer.
Kansas City, Oct. 25.—Approximately one-fourth of all persons who acquire syphilis develop a natural resistance to the disease and overcome it, Dr. Robert A. Vonderlehr of the U. S. Public Health Service said today.

This acquired immunity to the disease does not make it any less of a national health problem, since infected persons can still transmit it for several years, the assistant surgeon general of the service declared in an interview at the opening meeting of the American Public Health association.

"Neither does it mean that a person with the disease can ignore it," declared Dr. Vonderlehr, who is in charge of the service's venereal disease control work.

"It also does not mean that individual physicians, public health authorities, or the state and national governments can relax their vigilance in the present nationwide drive to control syphilis," he added, since every infected person is the source of a potential epidemic.

Discovery of this acquired immunity, in which the system builds up antibodies to resist the spirochete germ, resulted from the suspicions of a physician in Sweden, the assistant surgeon general said.

Following that suggestion Dr. Vonderlehr and his assistants checked the records of 400 persons known to have had syphilis but who had not had medical treatment. Of these more than 18 per cent were found not to have the disease when re-examined several years later.

MAY ASK CONGRESS FOR MORE LIBERTY TO RULE NEW LAW

Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The wage-hour administration may ask congress for broader authority in applying the new labor standards law to specific industries.

This prediction came today from high ranking officials, who were swamped with inquiries from employers as to whether the statute regulates minimum wages and maximum hours for their particular business.

Now that the wage-hour program actually has gone into effect, Administrator Elmer F. Andrews and his staff are giving most of their attention to these appeals for assistance.

Their opinions will be only advisory, however, for the courts must determine finally whether an individual industry is in interstate commerce and therefore subject to the federal law.

There is also the possibility that business men will request clarifying amendments to the act and possible extension of the classes of exempted workers. Some employers, on the other hand, argue that the courts should pass on the law as it now stands before making any changes in its provisions.

After the first day of the act's operation, Andrews reported last night that most branches of industry were complying fully with the new standards, even though many companies were not certain whether it applied to all their employees.

Unofficial estimates indicated that more than 80,000 persons were thrown out of work by shutdowns of scattered plants. Most of the layoffs occurred in the south, particularly in pecan-shell plants, lumber mills, and tobacco stemming factories.

In New York, the postal Telegraph company announced it was starting to lay off 1,000 messengers who receive less than the 25-cents an hour minimum.

Wage-Hour Ruling May Be Introduced in State Legislature in January

Chicago, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Wage-Hour legislation similar to the national law, but covering intrastate business, probably will be introduced at the January session of the Illinois legislature, Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor, said last night.

Durkin outlined the proposals after his return from a conference in Washington at which wage-hour legislation for all the states was discussed and partially drafted. Elmer F. Andrews, national administrator, was in charge.

The state labor director said wage minima probably would be similar to the national legislation, beginning at 25 cents an hour and gradually increasing to 40 cents. According to present plans, however, he said the maximum hours would be placed at 40 a week from the start. Provisions for children, he added, probably will be the same as in the national act.

A second conference on the wage-hour act, Durkin said, has been called for November 14 in Washington, with Secretary of Labor Perkins, Administrator Andrews and labor representatives of all states scheduled to attend.

Mrs. Frank Rosbrook attended the funeral of Mrs. Frank Vaughan in Amboy today.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with Albert Edward Wiggam, S. Sc., Author of
"THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND."

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No. Not in the general free-for-all way this question implies. The best educators believe that each school and college should have a number of broad courses in which all the students are linked together around some central theme or goal—courses that grow larger and broader as the student advances. Then each student should be carefully counseled when he enters—indeed all along—the course he likes best and which best fits his abilities. If the educators cannot organize a set of broad general courses that get somewhere, certainly a green student browsing around on what he thinks he likes cannot do so.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. A study of the psychology of failure has been made by an English student, Dorothy Gandine-Stanton, and she concludes that no one has a sense of failure until he has enough intelligence to compete for some goal or reward. Children fail over and over again until they are two to four years old and seem unaware of their failures. Both apes and feeble-minded children fail at a task over and over again without seeming to feel any sense of failure. The higher the goal the more keenly does one feel failure in not achieving it and since brilliant people strive for great goals and rewards they eventually feel failure more deeply.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. It does unless you are immensely in love with your job and are doing just what you wish most to do when you are at your regular work. Tony Sarg, maker of grotesques, says he has never done a day's work in his life because this is what he has always wanted to do. But probably the great majority of people are not doing precisely what they would choose and, therefore, what they do for recreation or for a hobby is the best indication of their true interests and character.

Men Teachers Protest Acting as TicketTakers

Saugus, Mass., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Seventeen men teachers at Saugus high school, who refused yesterday to serve as ticket-takers at home football games, withdrew their objections today after the school committee announced they could either agree or resign.

"We'll carry out our assignments and take tickets," said a spokesman, "but we'll have no more arguments with those righteous taxpayers. If they insist they have a right to enter the stadium as taxpayers, they're welcome to do so. They can walk right in, as far as we're concerned."

The 17 told the committee, in their petition for permission to withdraw, that spectators walked past them without paying the 25-cent general admission. The teachers also claimed the right to a Saturday off.

The school committee countered by explaining only six men were needed each week, so each teacher would have to serve only every fourth week.

Woman's Relief Corps Entertains Mrs. Ogan and Her Co-Officers

Mrs. Norma Ogan of Chicago, department president of the Woman's Relief corps, and six of her co-officers, were special guests of Dixon Woman's Relief corps No. 218, yesterday afternoon and evening. Other department officers attending besides Mrs. Ogan were Mrs. Janna Ware of Dixon, junior vice president; Mrs. Hazel Haedike of Des Plaines, treasurer; Mrs. Emma Lowderman of Galesburg, inspector; Mrs. Hazel Boyd of Chicago, patriotic instructor; Mrs. Elsie Gaffney of Elburn, chairman of the executive board; and Mrs. Carrie Ostrander of Chicago, executive board member.

Visitors from Freeport, DeKalb, Geneva, Elburn, Sterling, Chicago and Galesburg were present for Mrs. Lowderman's official visit of inspection in the G. A. R. hall during the afternoon. Mrs. Ware, who is president of the hostess corps, and her co-officers exemplified the initiatory ritual for one candidate, Mrs. Adeline Henschel of Dixon.

Inspection was followed by a reception and banquet, honoring the department officers, at St. Paul's Lutheran church. Past presidents of the Dixon corps formed the reception committee, and present officers of the local chapter acted as escorts. Mrs. Nellie Eastman of this city, a past department president, walked with Mrs. Ogan in the grand march to the dining room.

Pastel flowers decorated the candlelit tables, where 80 guests were seated, and several American flags were placed about the room. All of the city's patriotic orders were represented.

A four-piece orchestra entertained during the dinner hour. The remainder of the program included a reading by Miss Sara Hasselberg, vocal selections by Mrs. Myrtle George with Miss Margaret Ballou at the piano, and talks by the department officers.

Mrs. Marie Hetler, president of Dixon circle No. 73, Ladies of the G. A. R., presented Mrs. Ware with a yellow gold bracelet to match a necklace which was a gift from the Dixon corps. Gifts were also presented to the other department officers.

PRE-NUPTIAL COURTESIES
A three-course breakfast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Gross in Franklin Grove on Saturday morning wrote finis to a long list of pre-nuptial parties complimenting Miss Mildred Leake, preceding her marriage to R. Stanley Myers of Arlington Heights on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. J. L. Richardson of Amboy and Mrs. Floyd Derby of Dixon were assisting Mr. and Mrs. Gross in entertaining.

In the party besides the bridal pair were Mrs. H. A. Myers and Mr. and Mrs. William Myers of Mt. Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chambers of LaGrange, Dr. C. E. Hill, Marion Hogate, William A. Rossiter, and Miss Dorothy Bristow of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Harry Yaeger of Litchfield, Mrs. Edward Becker of Mt. Olive, Miss Ethel Clarke of Peoria, and Mr. and Mrs. William Jacob of Ankeny.

On Friday evening, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Leake, entertained members of the Myers-Leake bridal party at a 7 o'clock dinner at the Arch cafe in Amboy. Appointments were in keeping with the autumn season.

Miss Leake presented each of her attendants with a velvet evening bag, and the ushers and best man received ties and handkerchiefs from the bridegroom. Covenants were indicated for Mr. and Mrs. Earl Suter of Delavan, Wis.; Miss Dorothy Bristow, Dr. C. E. Hill, Marion Hogate, and William A. Rossiter of Arlington Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chambers of LaGrange, Mr. and Mrs. William Myers and Mrs. H. A. Myers of Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Edward Becker of Litchfield, Mr. and Mrs. C. Walter Jacob of Mendota, Miss Ethel Clarke and William Kelley of Peoria, Kenneth Gross of Franklin Grove, Mr. and Mrs. William Jacob, Mrs. Myrtle Eckburg, the hosts, and the guests of honor.

ENTERTAIN AT HARMON
Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bollman of Harmon entertained at a scramble dinner on Sunday in recognition of several October birthday anniversaries. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Floto, Frank Swartz and daughter Ruth and son Paul shared the compliment.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Floto and daughter Corine, J. B. Stackpole, C. B. Swartz, Nancy Lee Long, F. C. Swartz and family of Dixon, Wendell Reneau of Table Grove, Miss Carrie and Dan Watkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bollman and family of Harmon.

Former Home Adviser Weds

Miss Elizabeth A. Colean, former Lee county home adviser, who became the bride of Paul Henry of Taylorville today at the home of the bride's parents near Pawnee, Ill.

Miss Elizabeth Colean and Paul Henry Pledge Wedding Vows in Simple Rites at Colean Residence Near Pawnee, Ill.

Beauty of single white tapers gleaming in silver holders and a simple arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums was redoubled in the mantel mirror at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Meade D. Colean near Pawnee today noon, when the Coleans' elder daughter, Elizabeth, former advisor of the Lee County Home Bureau, exchanged wedding vows with Paul Henry, second son of the Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Henry of Taylorville. Only the Colean and Henry family members were present to hear the double ring ritual, read by the bridegroom's father, pastor of the Taylorville Christian church.

The bride and groom, who chose to be unattended, entered to strains of the traditional wedding march from the Wagner opera, "Lohengrin."

One of the season's most attractive brides, Miss Colean entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She had chosen a simple wedding costume of blue-green crepe, designed on straight lines with a floor-length skirt, with a jeweled clip at the neckline, and a short jacket edged with rolled pleating.

Her accessories were in the new dregs of wine shade, and she carried white flowers in an arm bouquet.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at a table centered with an all-white tiered cake. The pink and blue service was painted by the bride's mother.

Afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Henry left by motor for a two weeks' wedding trip through the east and south, planning to include Washington, D. C., Norfolk, Richmond, and the Smoky mountain region on their itinerary. When they return, they will be at home at 547 North Webster, Taylorville.

Mrs. Henry, who resigned as home adviser a few weeks ago to complete preparations for her wedding, was graduated from Ward Belmont at Nashville, and lately attended the University of Illinois, where she became affiliated with Phi Upsilon Omicron and Omicron Nu home economics honoraries. She formerly taught in the public schools at Kincaid, Ill.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Eastern State Teachers college at Charleston, did graduate work at Drake university. He is now employed as postal clerk at the Taylorville post office.

FOR CALIFORNIAN
Miss Rose Rudolph entertained three tables of bridge on Friday evening, complimenting Miss Gertrude Manning of Los Angeles, Calif., who is spending a month in Dixon with her parents. Score favors were won by Miss Clara Koerper and Mrs. Fred Manning, Jr., and there was also a guest prize for the honoree.

Lunch was served after play at tables trimmed with yellow chrysanthemums.

HOPKINS SAYS NO POLITICS ALLOWED ON WPA PROJECTS

Chicago, Oct. 25.—(AP)—WPA Director Harry L. Hopkins told a Chicago audience last night "we don't tolerate petty politics on WPA projects."

"Not because of a political party but because of the injury it would do the people to have politics mixed with relief," he added.

Hopkins, who spoke at a Sinai Temple Forum, alluded to contentions that persons on relief had been asked to vote for particular candidates.

"Without discussing the merits of political machines," he said, "I can't stop persons who are not under my control from asking people to vote for their candidates."

Defending the New Deal spending program, Hopkins said: "After seeing in those terrible years of 1931 and 1932 people seeking jobs, losing their savings, being dispossessed, I believe the government had a responsibility to see they got jobs and food."

"We've made mistakes. My mistake has been not in doing too much, but too little. I don't like what happened in Europe two weeks ago. It bothers me. I don't want to see forces rise up in this democracy because the people haven't eaten."

Bachelor Brothers Fired Upon As They Trained 'Coon Dogs

Reedsburg, Wis., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Two bachelor brothers were shot, one fatally, last night as they trained 'coon dogs in the woods near their town of Winfield farm home.

Sauk county authorities investigated the theory they were fired upon from ambush.

Patrick Healy, 55, was almost instantly killed by a shotgun charge. His 57-year old brother, Maurice, was wounded in the abdomen and hand. Little hope was held for his recovery.

Maurice walked 80 rods to the home of neighbors after the shooting and then was brought to a hospital here.

District Attorney John H. Rouse, after a preliminary investigation, said he was without clues to the brothers' assailant.

JOBS

for the 13 millions unemployed, and keeping the jobs of the 42 millions now employed, is the most pressing problem before the United States today.

I BELIEVE THAT--

1. Americans deserve and want jobs — not relief. Until jobs are secured we guarantee relief to the needy.
2. We need a high tariff to protect our workers and farmers from cheap foreign labor and commodities.
3. Business, large and small, and Agriculture should be spared additional regimentation, governmental waste and crippling taxation.
4. Government competition with private industry must stop.
5. Jobs must be had through successful and prosperous industry. Government interference stops the creation of new jobs. People prefer good paying jobs and regular work, to any hand-outs by politicians.
6. You agree with me, that this constructive program will bring back jobs and there is no other way.

FANFARE—

By DON DANIELSON

Sterling's defeat Saturday at the hands of Mighty Mendota put Dixon high school's grunder on top of the heap in the North Central conference. Dixon is batting 1,000 with two games; Sterling takes second place with one win and one loss; Belvidere has lost one, tied one and won one; DeKalb has tied one and lost one and Mendota has won one and lost two.

The high school freshmen waited until dark last night for the Sterling frosh to show up for a scheduled football tussle. Word came, as darkness fell, that a bus bringing the Sterling lads broke down. The game may be played tonight.

This week Coach C. B. Lindell of the high school squares off for his 122th game of football with an all time percentage that stands at .792 with 84 games won, 22 lost and 15 tied. In the North Central conference Lindell is hitting a swell record of .895 with 34 victories and four losses. This year the coach has piloted his men through five triumphs and only one lost prevents a perfect record. This year the percentage is .833.

Earl Page, Dixon halfback, is the high score man to date on the local football squad with 19 points to his credit. Louie Bevilacqua, another halfback, is second with a total of 14 points. Broken up, this all reads: Touchdowns—Page 3; Bevilacqua 2; Tom Richards 2; Howard Mantsch 1; Points—Bevilacqua 2; Page 1.

Well, it's here. The dawn of a new season is creeping in with the announcements of basketball from the University of Illinois. Word has come that fortified with experienced men at every position which gives promise of a successful season, the Illini squad began practice this week on the hardwood.

Looking to DeKalb on Saturday afternoon the Dixon gridders square away for another conference game and the first on the home grid. Last year the heavyweights trimmed the DeKalb squad by a count of 18 to 0 and the ponies lost to the steam-roller score of 21 to 0.

Tuesday is an off-day in most every neighborhood and a good time to look into the records. Thus far this season the Lindellmen have scored 53 points compared to 31 by opponents. That's the heavyweights. Looking at the lights we find they have a record of two victories and two tie games and have scored 36 points in comparison to 12 by rivals.

SELL-OUT CROWD EXPECTED AT THE WILDCATS' GAME

Northwestern Hopes To Plow Through Gophers To Big Ten Title

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Northwestern's Dyche stadium may cater to a capacity crowd again Saturday—the first time since 1936 when a sell-out crowd of 47,000 saw the Wildcats snap Minnesota's 21 game winning streak.

Northwestern officials said today all seats probably would be gone by game time Saturday when the Wildcats try to break the Gopher's current winning streak of seven games.

As in 1936, Minnesota rules the favorite. And the Wildcats, by spanking the Gophers, could well march on to another Big Ten championship just as they did two years ago.

Time Element the Same

Even the time element is the same—the last week in October. Northwestern's 1936 triumph came after Referee Johnny Getchell, involved in the recent Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech "wrong down" controversy, called a sliding penalty on Minnesota's Ed Widseth that set back the Gophers to their 4 yard line. From there Northwestern drove to its 6 to 0 victory.

Last year Minnesota defeated Northwestern 7 to 0 and started its conference stampede all over again. It has not been beaten outside the Big Ten since Notre Dame took its measure 7 to 6 last season.

Unscored Upon
The Wildcats, unscored upon as well as undefeated this season, started work for their fifth and all important game yesterday by running signals and perfecting their offensive timing.

The Wildcats are not without respect for their coming foe, particularly since two weeks of rest will permit the Gophers to throw almost full strength against the Purple, including their ace passer, Harold Van Every, and Halfback Wilbur Moore, who have been out with injuries.

Bierman Scouts
Bernie Bierman, Minnesota coach, returned from scouting Northwestern and Illinois and restricted most of yesterday's practice to defense against Wildcat formations.

Big shakeups hit the Illinois and Iowa camps. Most of the Illini changes resulted from a heavy toll of injuries and brought back Mel Brewer, quarterback until he was hurt, to his old guard station. At Iowa, Coach Irl Tubbs had Fullback Jerry Niles playing center and Quarterback Mike Enich at tackle. Indiana and Michigan drilled on defense, the latter against aerials. Ohio State had a general workout, Purdue and Chicago light sessions, while Wisconsin rested.

Omaha, Neb.—(AP)—Joe C. Stolski's drive for election as county assessor suffered a setback when lightning set his house afire and burned nearly 1,000 campaign cards.

Rubbing lemon juice into a steak before broiling will improve its flavor.

PITTSBURGH JUST AS GOOD IN VOTE AS ON GRIDIRON

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Panthers of Pittsburgh are just as good in the ballot box as they are on their field.

Ninety of the 100 sportswriters who participated in the season's second Associated Press poll, today chose Pittsburgh as the best football team in the land, nine others picked them for second place and one for third. Pitt got 989 points, only 11 from a perfect score, to top the first ten for the second straight week.

Minnesota, 305 points behind the Panthers, stayed ahead of California in the race for second, Texas Christian climbed from seventh to fourth and Santa Clara from sixth to fifth.

Notre Dame dropped from fifth to seventh after its single touchdown win over Carnegie Tech and Tennessee retained eighth position. Fordham and Oklahoma displaced Duke and Syracuse as the ninth and tenth teams.

All are undefeated and untied save Fordham, tied by Purdue.

The first ten (first place votes bracketed, points scored on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

Team	Points
Pittsburgh (90)	989
Minnesota (1)	681
California (3)	620
Texas Christian (3)	572
Santa Clara (1)	571
Dartmouth (1)	443
Notre Dame (1)	437
Tennessee (1)	413
Fordham (1)	370
Oklahoma (1)	116
Second ten: Duke 114, Northwestern 55, Michigan 36, Holy Cross 15, Villanova 14, Carnegie Tech 13, Cornell 12, Alabama 11, Southern California 10, Ohio State 7.

Others mentioned: Louisiana State 6, Texas A. and M. and Baylor 5 each, Colgate and Tulane two each, Boston College and Iowa State one each.

Layden Believes Tech Knew It Was 4th Down

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Elmer Layden, head football coach at the University of Notre Dame, has expressed the opinion that Paul Friendlander, Carnegie Tech quarterback, knew it was "fourth down" when he disputed the official ruling of Johnny Getchell, the referee in the game Saturday between teams of the two schools.

"Any further discussion of the dispute seems to me to be in poor taste, but since I am asked to comment, I only want to point out that it is the quarterback's responsibility to know what down it is," Layden said. The scoreboard and the headlinesman's mark showed fourth down.

"The Tech players knew it was fourth down because they checked signals when Friendlander called for a running play. But he called it again, apparently trying to take a chance with official sanction. Our quarterback always refers to the head linesman's marker and abides by it."

NATIONAL LEAGUE MOVIE REVEALS A NEW ABE LINCOLN

Baseball Feature Will Be Shown in Dixon This Winter

Editor's Note: This National League baseball picture mentioned in this story is the one which will be shown in Dixon at the Elks club sometime in December and at the Steward high school. The Elks made application for the film through the sports department of the Dixon Evening Telegraph.

NATIONAL SPORT

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—There are going to be some startled movie fans as soon as the National League gets its new super-special "The National Sport", distributed around the country. Abraham Lincoln, it turns out, couldn't keep his mind on the civil war for wondering whether the New York baseballers had defeated the Illinois baseballers in their latest contest.

It practically drove General Grant nuts, because the general wanted to discuss battles, and he didn't like to have all his swiftest couriers tied up with dashing back and forth between the capital and field headquarters with the latest sporting extras for the President.

New Side of Lincoln

This (to say the least) new side of the much-biographed war President was disclosed to an impressed audience at the picture's preview here. Among those who sat in stunned surprise were Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, President Will H. Taft and President Ford Frick of the National.

One of the biggest moments, a moment worthy of De Mille, came when a lathered boy in blue burst into the tent and thrust the 6 P. M. blue streak special, still damp from the presses, into Lincoln's eager hands. Quickly, Honest Abe riffled through it and found that the Illinois slugger had won. He turned on General Grant.

"There general," he said, "more important than winning battles is to get all these young men back home so they can play baseball."

A Temptation
It must be said to the credit of Ford Frick, who penned the scenario, that he did not have the President specify National League baseball. It must have been a temptation.

The scene, though, is guaranteed to make any audience forget what happened to the National League's representatives in the recent World Series, and other portions of the opus are almost equally diverting. The picture traces the history of baseball from the day Abner Doubleday had his "vision" and it is right good entertainment.

In the best "down east" tradition is the scene wherein the crooked player of the 80's, who has been caught at his nefarious work and kicked out of the game, comes back and begs the league president for "another chance." The dirty crook doesn't get it.

Game Explained

All phases of the game are explained and then demonstrated by stars of the National League. One of the more poignant episodes shows Bill Lee of the Cubs pitching his famous overhand curve. The scene was shot before Bill's recent unhappy introduction to the New York Yankees in the World Series.

"This curve," the announcer explains, "breaks downward across the plate, causing the batter to half-hit it on top and knock easy grounders."

Some Yankee is likely to break up the show laughing at this point.

Ruppert in Hospital For an Examination

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees who was unable to see his team beat the Chicago Cubs in the World Series because of illness, has entered a hospital for a physical examination. The Yankees' offices explained that Ruppert had recovered and had entered the hospital merely for a checkup before taking his annual vacation trip to French Lick Springs, Ind.

SHE DOESN'T NEED CATS

Evansville, Ind.—(AP)—Mrs. Victoria E. Wheeler used to worry about the rats getting her chickens but now the birds are taking care of matters.

She looked out in the chicken yard when she heard a commotion the other day and saw a plucky young Rhode Island red rooster dragging a rat around by the tail, while the other chickens pecked the rodent to death.

Just as the cameraman clicked his shutter, a long line of scrambling Michigan and Yale huskies in Yale Bowl accidentally jelled into the unusual "snap-the-whip" formation shown above and gave the illusion of "snapping" Yale's right halfback Albert Wilson (carrying the ball) into a short gain for his side. Although plays like this gave Yale a 13 to 8 lead over Michigan until the last seven minutes of their recent game, a last-stab touchdown by Michigan brought the Wolverines a 15 to 13 victory.

BY CAL JOHNSON

Can you distinguish a wood duck from other species of the duck family? If not, it might be well to become better acquainted with this beautiful species of water-fowl before hunting season opens as the migratory bird laws do not permit shooting this rare species at any time.

There are four characteristics the wood duck possesses which no other duck boasts, and after a hunter once learns how to recognize a wood duck these different characteristics are so pronounced that they will never be forgotten. The four are the method of flight, coloring, their foolhardiness and the whistle they make when they get off the water.

Wood ducks in flying have their heads continually in motion, weaving constantly from side to side, as if peering for something in the marsh below them. No other bird common to the hunters of the midwest has this characteristic. Wood ducks are very tame, almost to the point of foolhardiness. They will not rise off the water as quickly as other types of ducks, and in flying they are likely to fly much closer to a hunter than any other species of waterfowl.

The wood duck is brilliantly colored, with a white underpart of the body which can easily be distinguished while the duck is in flight. Their highly-colored crest, topknot, and cheeks are not so easily recognized while wood ducks are in flight but can be seen better when the birds are resting on the water or on land.

Peculiar Sounds in Flight
Wood ducks make a very peculiar noise when they rise from the water, a sound which is unlike that made by any other duck. This sound, while not very loud, carried distinctly over water and marshland and can easily be noted by the wide-awake hunter.

These four differences set the wood duck aside from other birds upon which legislation declares a season. Wood ducks are protected by state as well as federal laws and by the migratory bird treaty act between the United States and Canada. This stringency of protection was placed upon them because they had been nearly exterminated, and because of their great individual beauty. Many believe the wood duck to be the most beautiful of all American ducks, if not of all birds in this country. The male is particularly festive in his rich apparel with its flowing crest. The wood duck is truly the Beau Brummel of duckland. He is a native of this country alone.

PROBE OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL ON COAST IS NEARLY FINISHED

Los Angeles, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The sweeping survey of college football in the Pacific Coast conference is better than half completed, and the man in charge thinks that any skeptic who doubted the sincerity of the probe is due for a surprise.

The man is Edwin N. Atherton, of San Francisco, who has spent some twenty years in the business of investigating everything from a foreign spy plot to that great American mystery of who threw the overalls in Mrs. So-and-So's chowder—well, almost.

There may have been investigations of college athletics in the past, of accusations of proslavery and general abuse of amateur standards, but never one as big or searching as this one, said Atherton today.

"The conference hired me in a sincere move to study the situation, and I become more impressed each day with its sincerity. On top of that, I'm not in the white-washing business."

Engaged last January to conduct the survey, Atherton has interviewed about 500 varsity and freshmen football players.

He goes from one campus to another, is presently on his second lap, and questions the boys on the source and amount of their incomes, their jobs, the time put in on them and the time left for study.

All Baseball and No Play Makes Jack a Dull Player: Mack

Philadelphia, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Connie Mack, who's seeking some way to lift the Athletics out of the American League cellar, may try granting vacations with pay instead of suspensions next season as a cure for the baseball player's slump.

"Too much baseball," he said today, "is like too much candy—even a youngster gets tired of it." Mack's about convinced that night baseball would speed the clicking of the turnstiles at Shibe park next year, and now he's mulling over the problem of player's morale.

"Too much baseball," he explained, was the reason Sam Chapman, the Athletics' left fielder blew up after a promising season.

Mack's idea is to "keep them away from the park. Pack them off to the mountains, or even get them a job doing something else for a few days. Anything to keep their minds off baseball."

The expense of vacations with pay, he points out, would be small compared to the dollar and cents cost of a slump like that one that beat the Pittsburgh Pirates out of the National League pennant.

GOBBLED PILE OF FOOD

Chicago —(AP)—Louis Stein, 50, ordered a hamburger at a Lawrence street restaurant and ate it. He kept on ordering hamburgers and a crowd gathered to watch him.

He was cheered as he gulped hamburger number 22 and started downing two quarts of ice cream. He wiped his mouth 25 minutes after the first hamburger, then turned to Sam Roth and collected $40. Sam had bet Louis he couldn't do it within two hours.

THIS HAPPENS TO EDITORS WHO TRY TO COACH TEAMS

Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 25.—(AP)

—The question on the University of Iowa campus today revolved around who will write future football stories for the student daily, the Daily Iowan.

The sports editor, Dennis Sullivan, and John Mooney, editor of the paper, were ejected from the football practice field last night by four football players irked by Sullivan's account of Iowa's game with Colgate Saturday which resulted in a 14 to 0 defeat.

Mooney declared that in the future a co-ed society editor would write about the football team's practice sessions but the society editor said "no".

Word from the team dressing room came that the four players acted for the entire squad when they tossed the two writers off of the field. Team spokesmen declared that neither Mooney nor Sullivan would be allowed again to witness the Hawkeyes in practice.

Chief bone of contention between the writers and players was Sullivan's story which charged the Iowa team failed to make the "slightest show of resistance" against Colgate.

The players also were incensed over a column appearing under Sullivan's name which carried a heavy border and represented the "obituary notice" of Iowa's football hopes, such as they were.

Iowa has won only one game this season, against a weak Chicago eleven. The Hawkeyes have lost to U. C. L. A., Wisconsin and Colgate.

Crew Dissatisfied With Race's Postponement

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Fishermen of the crew of the challenging American schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud expressed dissatisfaction today over postponement until tomorrow of the deciding race with the Canadian champion Bluenose for the International fishermen's trophy.

Thebaud bested Bluenose in a blinding rainstorm yesterday to make the schooners' standing two-all in a three-out-of-five title contest. The fifth contest was postponed after storm warnings had been hoisted for today.

Captain Cecil Moulton of Thebaud wired Captain Charles M. Lyons, U. S. Steamship Inspector at Boston and chairman of the race committee, asking that he reconsider the postponement and asserting his crew was "anxious to finish and get back to fishing."

Captain Moulton succeeded Captain Ben Pine, Thebaud's managing owner and her veteran racing skipper, when illness set him ashore.

"I don't blame the boys if they're getting tired of it," he said. "We all have to make a living and if the committee won't send us out when there is a chance of a race, we would be better off if we all went fishing."

DIVORCED AT 15

Wabash, Ind.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Fosnough, 15-year-old mother of a nineteen-month-old child, was the youngest person ever to get a divorce in the Wabash circuit court. She and her husband, Ralph, 19, were married in November, 1936.

On the grounds that they were hotbeds of political intrigue, Charles II of England once tried to suppress coffee houses.

ILLINOIS REELING UNDER INFLUENCE OF OLD MAN JINX

Pre-Season Hopes Are Punctured By Team's Many Injuries

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The "bigger and better" University of Illinois football team, which punctured glowing pre-season predictions by stumbling before Ohio University only to bounce back to reputable standing, appears to be reeling again—this time from the effects of its old jinx, injuries.

The jinx, takes particular toll of key backs. In 1935 injuries removed Les Lindberg's effectiveness. In successive years, Lowell Spurgeon and Jay Wardley were struck down.

This year, in the midst of the Illini's rebounding against DePaul and Indiana, the jinx caught Mel Brewer, blocking quarterback and ace line bacher. He was unavailable for the Notre Dame and Northwestern games. Now it has shelved Bob Wehrli, fastest and most dependable back, for the season and little Cy Mazeika for several weeks. Wehrli has a fractured elbow, Mazeika a wrenched knee.

Searches For Replacements

Nor has the jinx stopped at the backfield. As the Illini started preparations for Michigan this week, Coach Bob Zuppke found himself searching for line as well as back replacements when four guards turned up hurt.

They were Wes Martin, hip injury; George Bernhardt and Jim Hodges, shoulder ailments and Ralph Hathaway, minor bruises. All but Hathaway may be on the sidelines Saturday.

Yesterday Mel Brewer returned to the squad and immediately was stationed at guard, where he starred as a sophomore last year. Bob Ingle was at the other guard in Martin's place.

Cliff Peterson, the Moline sophomore, came back to the first team to fill Wehrli's post. Merlyn Burris of Catlin, who caught three passes against Northwestern, supplanted Mazeika.

The only shifting not the result of injuries came at the two end positions. Recent performances by Sophomores Jim Phillips of Woodstock and Herb Young of Millville, N. J. earned them places over veterans Ken Zimmerman and Bob Castelo.

Leap Year boosts expenses. The extra day involves an expenditure of $200,000 for salaries in the British Royal Air Force alone.

According to estimates, there are 2,750,000 motorcycles in the world; 85 per cent of these being in Europe.

The United States has 3,800,000 Jews within its boundaries. This is the greatest Jewish population of any country in the world.

Drama From Theatre of War in China

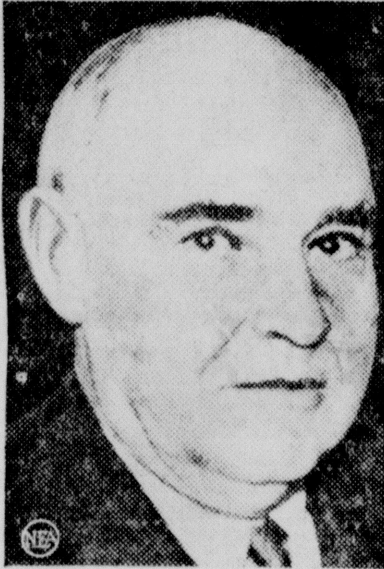

Contained in the great tragedy of the life-and-death struggle between Japan and China are many lesser but none-the-less stirring dramas like the one recorded here, showing the capitulation at dawn of a body of Chinese at Lushan. In the unusual photo above, dark figures with hands aloft are silhouetted against the brightening sky as they march over the brow of a wooded hill to surrender. But a Japanese soldier, suspicious, stands with bayonet fixed, ready for anything—

Turns 'The Cloth' Into Overalls

Against a background of denim-clad choir singers, Rev. L. O. Waldon, above, of Shreveport, La., preached a sermon garbed in overalls. It was all part of his one-man campaign to "give the church back to the poor" who, he said, hesitate to attend because they are ashamed of their clothes. Commented Rev. Waldon, "It's just not right to make a dress parade ground out of the house of God."

Orders Arrests in WPA 'Graft'

Arrest of 73 persons, many prominent in New Mexico politics and government, was ordered by U. S. Circuit Judge Colin Nebbett, above, of Santa Fe following grand jury indictments on charges of diversion of WPA funds and labor, and conspiracy to violate the WPA appropriations code. Judge Nebbett's comment: "It was common rumor that graft had been going on for some time."

STORIES IN STAMPS

After Munich, What Next For the League?

ALMOST a score of years back, the creation of the League of Nations, incorporated in the Treaty of Versailles, was hailed as perhaps the most remarkable of all the direct results of the World War. Today, nearly all that was done at Versailles has been undone or faces further critical test. So the question comes, what next for the League of Geneva?

For in a series of shattering strokes, Adolf Hitler has undermined the Covenant of the League of Nations, rendered it wholly ineffective. One more blow in the League's long struggle was delivered that day at Munich when Hitler and Chamberlain and Daladier and Mussolini sat around a table and decided the fate of Europe—a task which the great powers agreed just 20 years ago must be reserved specifically for the new League.

Meanwhile, in the beautiful palace of the League at Geneva, statesmen have not quite given up hope. They see in the Anglo-German accord and other moves a possible rebirth of some form of collective security such as the League might again make possible. They believe such agreements might be extended again between most nations of the world.

Midget Autoist Into Flaming Comet

As 15,000 horrified midget-auto-race fans watched, the car driven by Fred Friday in a recent race in Los Angeles took fire when a gas line broke and turned him into the flaming human comet pictured above. His face wreathed in fire, as seen in the photo, Friday pluckily raised his hand to warn off the other drivers, then steered into the infield, came to a stop, unfastened his safety belt and leaped out—his clothes ablaze. He was taken to a hospital, suffering from severe burns. At right, another car is seen swerving to avoid Friday's machine.

"Natzi" Storm Dupers

This might be a scene from Nazi Germany—but it isn't. It is the high point in a two-day "crisis" over the "frontiers" of Harvard University. Officials of Cambridge, Mass., where the school is located, recently threatened to incorporate Harvard as a municipality "separate and distinct" from Cambridge. Students hastily formed a "Harvard Secessionist Society" and, aided by members of the Harvard Lampoon, staged the burlesque "Natzi" demonstration shown above—a take-off on the Sudeten-Czech situation.

Lambeth to Loop in One Lesson

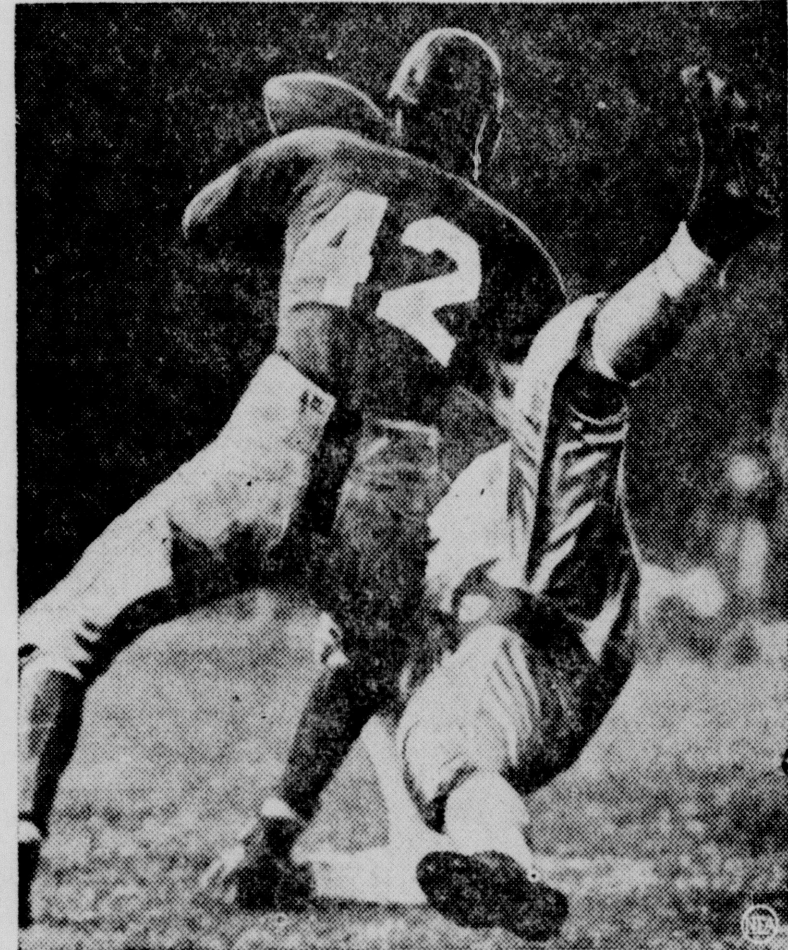

"I passed in Lambeth Walking, but I flunked the Shag!" That may be Chicago scholastic conversation since Senn High School and 11 others instituted classes in modern dances on Friday evenings, expenses divided between the school board and a 10-cent tax per pupil. Mrs. Estelle Flanders Green, above at right, instructs a class in the fine points of the Lambeth Walk.

Quints Make Mark in Hollywood

Ten tiny footprints of five famous girls, the Dionne quintuplets, were impressed in the fresh cement in front of Grauman's Chinese Theater, with Actor Jean Hersholt, shown here, acting as proxy for his five little friends. The quint's five sets of shoes, worn in their newest movie, "Five of a Kind," were flown from Callander, Ont., for the ceremony.

Double Duty in Split Second

How to intercept a pass and take an opponent out of the play at the same instant is ably demonstrated by Fred Ledeboer, Stanford half-back, No. 42, who snares the ball intended for Oliver Day, Southern California quarterback upended on the play. Although the pass boomeranged on the Trojans they went on to win, 13-2, at Palo Alto.

War Victims Flee Canton Before Japanese Conquest

With extension of the Japanese onslaught to South China, there are few havens for terror-stricken war refugees. Here is a Chinese family with hastily gathered belongings on the road from Canton just before the South China city fell to the Japanese.

F. D. R.'s "Dream" Home Becomes Concrete Reality

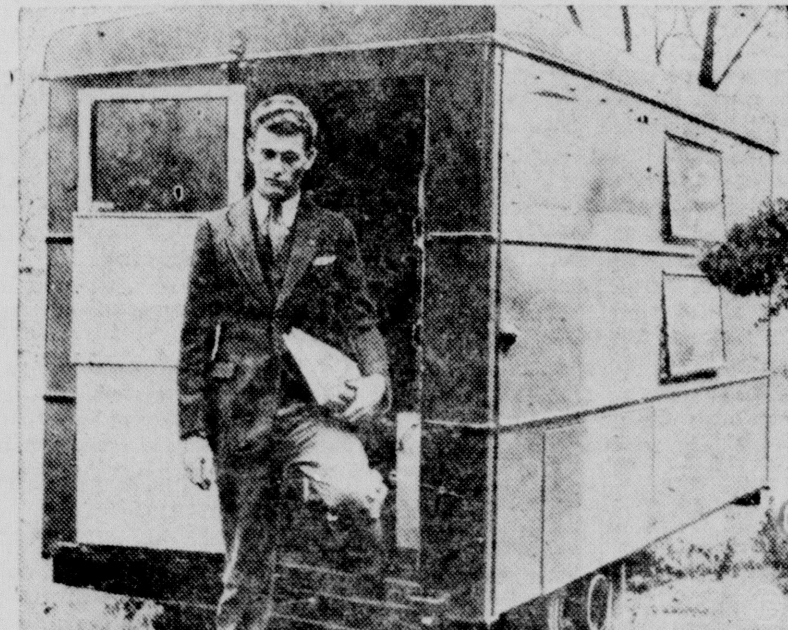

Conceived by the President himself as his "dream" of a home, the handsome Dutch-style house begins to take concrete form in stone. It is being constructed on a 70-acre forest tract near the Roosevelt Hyde Park, N. Y., house and will be known as "Dutchess Hill Cottage." Its most important convenience—from the Presidential viewpoint—is that it will lack a telephone. Photo shows how far construction has already progressed on the "dream" home nestling in the woods.

Where Volcano of War Steams Again

War talk raised its ugly voice again in Europe after Hungary joined in the partition of Czechoslovakia by demanding a large slice of territory along the Hungarian-Slovakian border. Both disputants massed troops on their common frontiers and violence broke out in several towns. The shaded area on the map above shows the piece of Slovakia that Hungary wants. It covers approximately 4349 square miles containing 1,120,000 inhabitants, of whom 433,000 are said to be Slovaks. The Czech offer of 2132 square miles with 376,000 population was refused by Hungary, which put the dispute up to the four signers of the Munich accord.

On the Campus Trail

Having won a state scholarship to Rutgers University, William Moncrief, 20-year-old student from Bridgetown, N. J., found he couldn't afford to live in a dormitory. So, for $70 he bought the trailer beside which he stands in the photo above, installed it on the Rutgers Campus, obtained electric current from the school at a small charge, and moved in. He takes his meals at a house where undergraduates cook their own, and earns $10 a month incidental expenses by working on the college farm.

OBITUARY

ABNER BARLOW

(Contributed)

Abner L. Barlow, son of Augustus and Sophia Preston Barlow, was born in Manchester, Green Lake county, Wis., May 29, 1855. At the age of five years his parents moved to Kasson, Minn., living at that place for several years. At the age of 12 years, he came overland from Kasson, Minn., to Dixon, Ill., making the long tedious journey by wagon drawn by oxen.
Arriving at Dixon, his father bought the farm east of the city from Mr. Mason and settled there, in the house which still stands as a landmark, being over 100 years old and being at that time, the first house east of the court house. On May 24, 1880, he was married to Anna E. Whitmore and to this happy union three children were born: Mabel, wife of Dr. W. L. Carous of Sterling; Harriett, wife of Edward McCleary of Turlock, Cal., and Edwin who resides on the farm east of Dixon. Nine grandchildren and one great grandson also survive to mourn him.

Mr. Barlow's wife preceded him in death four years ago and since that time he has been in failing health. Four weeks ago he was taken to the home of his son where he was given every comfort and care, but death came quietly and peacefully to him Wednesday morning, Oct. 19, and took him to be with her whom he so sadly missed. Mr. Barlow was an honest, upright citizen, kind to his children and loved ones, a good neighbor, and will be greatly missed by all who offer condolence to the bereaved family at this sad time.

Sleep on dear one, await us there. While we, our lonely vigil keep. And await the summons that must come. To that deep and dreamless sleep.

STUDY REPORTS OF GERMANY'S DESIRE FOR TRADE SCHEME
Washington, Oct. 25—(AP)—Government officials, studying reports that Germany wants a triangular trade arrangement with Great Britain and the United States on the basis of barter and "blocked marks", have found that a large share of German-American commerce already is conducted on such a system.

Although Secretary Hull has declared Germany's method of trade was opposed diametrically to that of the United States, some officials believe a majority of the trade between the two countries may be along Germany's lines. They said the exact percentage was not known here.

In 1937 Germany bought $124,166,000 worth of merchandise from the United States and sold it $92,644,000 worth — a total trade of more than $200,000,000.

One official estimated that nearly all the American cotton sold to Germany — 655,894 bales in the year ending last July — has been sold either on a barter or "blocked mark" arrangement.

(Blocked marks are German funds owned by Americans and other foreigners in bank deposits in Germany. They can be used only for certain limited purposes permitted by the government and can not be removed from the country.)

The treasury, by order of Dec. 23, 1936, permitted trade with Germany in four artificial categories. One of them involves barter — the exchange of merchandise between German and American parties without any monetary transaction taking place.

Japan has had no less than 22,000 earthquakes during the last 10 years.

CORN EXPORTING THROUGH CHICAGO HIGHEST SINCE '22

Chicago, Oct. 25—(AP)—The "corn for export" sign still was up today in the world's largest corn market even though business was not quite as good as it was last summer.

Waterway and rail movement this year of American export corn through Chicago, hub of the producing belt, reached the largest volume of the century, except for 1922. Sales the past month were estimated at four to five million bushels, indicating there is no sign of the end of the thriving business which was revived a year ago. Last week the volume exceeded 1,000,000 bushels.

Lake navigation may continue a month or more before ice clogs the water pathway to the Atlantic. Almost half the corn sold abroad this year has moved by lake. This phase of the traffic has broken all Twentieth Century records except one.

When the lakes are closed, corn traffic by water again will go south.

In the statistical crop year ending Monday the United States will have exported approximately 140,000,000 bushels, according to latest estimates. This is the largest since 1922 when the total was 166,000,000. In 1937 imports totaled 86,000,000.

Shipments by lake from Chicago have exceeded 68,000,000 bushels since navigation began in April. Most of this was for export. The record of 78,000,000 was established in 1921 and with that exception the 1938 figure has not been equalled since 1900. Last week 2,500,000 bushels cleared Chicago wharves.

Necktie Becomes A Wrecker of a Home

Chicago, Oct. 25—(AP)—Mrs. Betty Thompson, 21, told Judge Robert C. O'Connell that she didn't believe her husband was going to come back to her.

Mrs. Thompson, seeking a divorce from Franklin Thompson, said she was married 18 months ago.

After the wedding Thompson drove his bride to their new home and, she said, he then went back to his old home for his favorite necktie.

He has not come back yet, she told Judge O'Connell, who granted her a divorce.

DON MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

The Characters
Kathleen Gregory goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for the Gregory mine shaft from MacDonald.
Donald MacDonald has refused the right-of-way, hates the Gregorys.
Bridget: Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday: After the accident, Kathleen's father gives her full rein. Then the Gregorys leave. All the miners receive checks for Christmas.

Chapter 23 Holiday Time

The MacDonalds came in that evening. Kathleen sat quietly, wondering at the fresh air, the opposite side of the room, Donald MacDonald sat, unconsciously staring at the bandaged hands, mute evidence of the girl's bravery, his face dark with rebellion.

"I'd wanted to take you home with me for the holidays," Mrs. MacDonald told the girls, but the doctor says no. Well, the boys will return for Huguena!—Hug me, what?" asked Bridget.

"Oh, you Irish don't celebrate New Year's Eve as the Scotch do. I'd advise you to prepare for the stroke of midnight. You'll want your first visitor to be a man, and after that a man and a girl, one dark, one fair. Have fuel on your veranda for the first man to carry in and you'll have good luck the rest of the year."

"But suppose the first visitor is a girl?" queried Bridget.

"Ask Mayme what happens. Poor child nearly stayed out all night last year. She lives in the last cottage down the hill you know. She'd worked late at the hotel. One of the men drove home, but he couldn't get near the house, so she sent him back and walked on. Her mother wouldn't let a girl be first to cross the threshold on the New Year. She had to come up and get the good luck into the house."

The MacDonalds left early, they were driving to Carstedt at dawn and from there would entrain. Bridget escorted them to the porch while Kathleen sat fighting the tears of defeat. Donald hadn't even said goodby.

"I just wanted to say I hope you'll have a merry Christmas." The words came out like the snap of a whip.

"The same to you and many of them," Kathleen snapped back. And where was Bridget? Did the crazy girl want to catch cold standing out in the cold? Mrs. MacDonald's voice had sounded from the street long ago.

Bridget came in, her eyes like the northern stars on a frosty night. Kathleen had to speak twice before she was heard, then Bridget was contrite.

"Donald says Norman is coming back to spend the rest of the winter with him," she purred. "That's flashed Kathleen, 'is just ducky!'"

Bridget's arms went around Kathleen. "Oh I'm selfish, dear, I keep forgetting what pain you are in. Come, let me unress you and tuck you in. Then two little white tablets and a few hours of rest."

Kathleen rested her head on the supporting arms. She couldn't hate Bridget if she wanted to, and now she wanted to.

The very thought of Christmas was heart-sickening to Kathleen. Why hadn't she made the excuse that she wanted to go to Chicago and tuck down on New York? But she couldn't travel. The day would be lonely, dreary.

It wasn't Bridget who was ready for the carol singers who gathered beneath the windows of Christ, Mrs. Eve. They tramped into the house shaking powdery snow from their shoulders and tramped out again.

Shower of Gifts
Blindfolded, Kathleen was led to her room and there found a wide, deep stouche, a gift from Miss Beatrice Gregory. She slept upon it that night, lay watching the hearth coals flare and glow and purple and wondered what Christmas Eve would be like in Los Angeles, if Mrs. MacDonald and Norman would have a merry time. Donald would have a crowd of those girls Mayme had mentioned, making a fool of him.

Morning came, and with it such a shower of gifts Kathleen was astounded. Donald, MacDonald, sent not one gift but a box of them; thoughtfully chosen gifts. Six of the latest novels and an adjustable stand to hold them and attached to this an automatic page turner.

Strangely precious to Kathleen was the personal gift, a pocket powder box bearing a card on which was written "To use next summer so I won't have to look at the freckles." Inside the box cover was inscribed, "To Spit-Fire from the yapping Malamute."

Surely there was nothing tender in the term "Spit-Fire" yet it struck some dim, sympathetic chord of memory.

Then came the miners with their gifts, enough potted plants to fill the broad Gregory house windows, hand-carved bookends and boxes, dainty pieces of fancy work. Kathleen treasurer most a queer looking square, awkwardly embroidered—Laura, MacBride's idea of a haremchief.

It was a merry day in Neutrality, and the cheer of it spread to the big house where Kathleen sat beside the armchair radio, her father's gift, listening to dance music from Los Angeles.

Dinner was prepared and served by the MacDonald housekeeper who hovered over Kathleen as though she belonged to the proper class. Old Balmey, their guest of honor, brought a gift to Kathleen and asked that she not open it until she was alone.

That moment came at bedtime. Wonderingly she unwrapped the package then called to Bridget. "Bridget, he is Balmey's look," and she held up one half of a torn, blood-stained shirt.

Bridget snatched the object from her and carried it to the light. "This is aged old," she pronounced. "See how yellow it is? And these stains are nearly black. Half a shirt . . . half a cabin . . . a town divided—Kathleen, Balmey's given you the key to the feud. What does the card say?"

Inside of the envelope were two sheets of paper: one fresh, the other dry and yellowed by age.

I'm leaving this with you. When you find some offspring of mine with guts enough to get back the other half, turn this over. If you don't, will it to my son and let him see what men were like when they were men.

Angus. Bridget chuckled. "Your Dad would love it. It looks to me as though Old Angus had lost half his shirt to—"

"Old MacDonald," supplied Kathleen. "Let's see what Balmey has to say."

"Patch the shirt!" She opened the second sheet. My dear, the better way will be to patch the two halves together and keep the shirt in the family as a reminder.

Kathleen shook her head. "It's Greek to me. Who has the other half? Donald or one of the miners? And how . . . Bridget, do you suppose Father told Balmey who?"

"Darling," interposed Bridget, "for a girl with as bright a head as yours, you're woefully dumb. Balmey has known you since the moment he met you. Old Angus probably showed him every photograph ever taken of you, and he'd have watched the rotogravures with intense interest."

"But why didn't he tell me?" cried Kathleen.

"My dear, he was waiting for you to show your trust in him. Then too, he'd be the kind to let you work out your problem without interference."

"Bridget," Kathleen leaned forward in alarm, "do you think everyone knows?"

Gaily came Bridget's laugh. "No, dear, at least I'm confident. Kit-Smyth has no idea. Perhaps a few of the older Gregory families suspect, but like Balmey, they'd never speak to anyone, nor to you until you took the first step."

"And the MacDonalds?"

Bridget sobered. "I think they know."

"Perhaps I'd better come out in the open."

"No, don't do that. They'd rather not have you admit your identity. As it is, they can associate with you without their people questioning them."

Kathleen's smile was bitter. She understood, she thought. As long as she was Cleo Riley, Bridget could associate daily with MacDonald. Well, so be it, he'd need to associate daily with him if she were to promote her new plan.

Kathleen fingered the old shirt, then began chuckling. "What a fight that must have been! Oh I wish I'd known him, he might have given me a few pointers."

"Or you given a few to him," countered Bridget, and fled, leaving Kathleen to wonder what had caused the fight.

Balmey wouldn't tell, she was sure until she had admitted her identity and perhaps Balmey, like the MacDonalds, preferred she continue as Cleo Riley.

She looked up at the photograph of the dark-eyed woman. "I'll never even mix up in this some place," she accused, and then she looked down at her hands. Would they ever be normal again? If not?

Kathleen sat in passionate rebellion, then lifted her eyes to a mirrored reflection. There, that was the resemblance she had noticed before. Her eyes, so totally unlike any other Gregory's, were like the eyes of the woman in the photograph.

She reread Balmey's note. Now what had he meant by that, "the better way, patch the two halves together and keep the shirt in the family." First, she'd have to find the other half. This was what Old Angus' note had suggested, then, why had Balmey called it "the better way?"

The first man's unheard words must have been, "I'm white" because if he is white he tells the truth and if he's yellow he lies and says he is white. Therefore the second man told the truth when he called that the first man said he was white so he is white. The third man said the second was yellow so he himself, a liar, is yellow.

People's Column

NEW DEAL? OLD DEAL?

October 22, 1938

To Washington Merry-Go-Round Subscribers:

Recently an editor forwarded to Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, authors of The Washington Merry-Go-Round, some criticisms of their column which he had received from readers. Basis of the criticism was the charge that the column was "propaganda for the New Deal."

In reply, Mr. Pearson wrote as follows:

"Thank you so much for your good letter and the privilege of writing to answer some of our critics. I know that we have a few—in fact, we have them on both sides of the fence."

"Although some of your readers may think of us as very pro-New Deal, we get it sometimes hot and heavy from New Dealers in Washington and from those who sympathize with the New Deal outside of Washington. For instance, when the American Society of Newspaper Editors met in Washington last spring and appeared for the usual regular chat with the President, the latter singled out Bob Allen and me, among all the columnists in the country, to crack down upon. His remarks, as repeated to us by friendly editors later, were, 'I know that you like to read Pearson and Allen, but why don't you get some columns of your own? Obviously nothing could be more damaging than to have the President of the United States suggest that editors start their own columns in competition with ours.'"

"I don't claim, for a minute, that Bob Allen and I are always 100 per cent right, or 100 per cent fair. We try to be fair and we try to be right. I think we come pretty close to the mark. In fact, if I may say so, I don't think we could continue in 300 newspapers if any real bias crept in over a period of time. As you know, we have been running for nearly six years now."

"If I may summarize what we try to do, I think it is to write the news and let the news speak for itself. For instance, in the clipping which was forwarded to you from The Chicago Journal of Commerce, we were painted as the New Deal's No. 1 unofficial 'smearing machine' because we set forth what the New Dealers felt about business and public spending. What the New Dealers think about business is no great secret and has been reported many times before. We felt that it was news, however, that the monopolies committee was going to investigate certain phases of the relationship between business and spending. And we set forth, as accurately as we could, the views given to us by the men who were conducting this investigation. Because we did not go out and say that the New Dealers were absolutely wrong, the writer in The Chicago Journal of Commerce, who obviously is touting business, called us a 'smearing machine.' Our object is to report the facts and let other people decide whether the deduction to be drawn from those facts are right or wrong."

"You know, as well as, or probably better than I do, that frequently the exposing of facts would be extremely embarrassing, particularly when those facts are supposed to be confidential. Thus, we continually embarrass the Administration by reporting things which they don't want known. As an illustration, we recently reported a conversation which Mr. Farley had with his intimates regarding his week-end at Hyde Park. Mr. Farley was just as sore as the cat whose tail is stepped on when he read this piece. Mr. Roosevelt did not like it either. But it happened, and we reported it. Thus, also, neither Mr. Farley nor the President liked the story we wrote about the political estrangement between the two gentlemen."

"I think that some of our critics are inclined to expect us to editorialize and tell them how wrong it is for the New Deal to do this and thus. If we did this, we would not remain in circulation very long, since we are not editorial writers. What we try to do is to tell what the New Deal or the Old Deal, either one,

Theatre News

AUDITORIUM THEATRE
Chicago

Max Gordon has but one company playing the Clare Boothe comedy, "The Women," this season. The New York company, which spanned three seasons in the Ethel Barrymore Theatre, New York, and the company seen in Chicago last season have been merged and come to the Auditorium Theatre Sunday night, November 6 for two weeks (with matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays) at the popular prices of $1.65 for main floor tickets, $1.10 first 9 rows of the balcony, 83 cents for the rest of the balcony, and 55 cents for gallery seats.

Not in recent years has a play caused so much controversy. The author, on one hand, is accused of belittling her sex and, on the other, of paint a graphic picture of that group of women who have more time and money than is good for them. The forty characters in "The Women," however, are not all representatives of the social strata. The action of the play runs from drawing room to kitchen pantry, and Miss Boothe attempts to show that, in one point at least—gossip—all women are sisters under the skin. Sharp tongues lash ever so much the same way whether they are in the mouths of grand dames or parlor maid.

During the three seasons' run at the Ethel Barrymore Theatre in New York and the ten weeks' run in the Erlanger Theatre, Chicago, last season, "The Women" has enjoyed practically capacity houses, with both sexes (except at matinees) in about equal evidence—women apparently enjoying seeing their sisters exposed to cat clawing and the men learning the lowdown about the opposite sex.

"The Women" was staged by Robert E. Sinclair and the settings were designed by Jo Mielziner. In the roster of the splendid company to be seen in the Auditorium Theatre, Chicago, are Lois Wilson, Alice Buchanan, Emily Ross, Helen Carrington, Emily Smiley, Effie Afton, Debra Byron, Mary Loane, Laura Pierpont, Dorit Kelton, Jane Marbury, Miriam Battista, Edith Shayne, Didonia Espero, Dorothy Draper, Jeanne Cooley, Jane Amar, Augusta French, June Webster, Ruth Kelton, Eva Lynn, Georgia McKinnon, Mildred Sherman, Kathryn Gordon and Marianne Risdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elsted in Rockford. Miss Marilyn, who has spent the past month with her aunt, Mrs. Jim Purcell in Chicago, has returned home and will fill the position in the proof room which Mrs. Price Alter resigned this week.

Mrs. Earl Unger spent the week end in Dixon with her mother, Mrs. Charles Whitebread.

The J. I. Davis family had a family dinner at the home of their son Ira and wife on Sunday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Onzie Davis and son Darrell, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tilden, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kessler and son Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weller, the Misses Mildred and Lorene Davis and J. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Althouse and son and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Zeigler and daughter all of Rockford, spent the week end with the ladies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pearce.

E. J. Hyland returned home Sunday from Mayo's hospital at Rochester, Minn., where he had gone for consultations.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Newcomer spent the week end at Madison, Wis.

Week end house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Watt were the latter's sister, Mrs. Ida Becket and children of Chicago.

CHAPTER WAS HOST.

DL Chapter PEO entertained the grade and high school teachers and their wives at the Flagg township library room, Monday night, October 24th. Miss Maude Patterson of Rockford, a teacher in the Rockford schools, who spent a year in England, was the guest speaker.

MANY TO CHAMPAIGN.

Rochelle was liberally represented at the University of Illinois homecoming at Champaign Saturday for the Northwestern-Illinois football game. Among those from Rochelle who attended the game were: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hubbard and Harold Hubbard, Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Coggeshall, Wilbur Stocking, Miss Betty Elmer, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Jones and Nugent Wedding and Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Kepner.

WERE GUESTS HERE.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. May of New York City spent the week end with Mr. May's mother, Mrs. Ida May. On Monday, Mr. May left for a business trip to St. Louis and Fort Worth, Texas, and his wife remained in Rochelle for a week's visit with Mrs. Ida May.

TO STATE MEETING.

The Flagg township public library will be represented at the State Library Association meeting at Springfield this week by Miss Leona Ringering and Miss Lelah Cobb.

AUDITED RECORDS.

The P. W. A. auditors have been in Rochelle the past week examining the books of Township Treasurer Elmer Boltz and Mrs. Harvey Phelps, secretary of school district 131, in connection with the construction of Central school. Mr. Boltz and Mrs. Phelps were highly complimented on their set of books which were found accurate and very well maintained.

RECITAL HELD HERE.

Members of the Dixon Music club held their second meeting of the season, Monday evening, October 24th, at the home of Floyd Biefang in Rochelle.

Numbers given by Mr. Biefang were:

The Wandering Miller, Schubert Oh That I Might Retrace the Way Brahms The Arrow and the Song Balfe Floyd Biefang, baritone.

Floyd Biefang, baritone. Mabel Oakland, accompanist Vincent Carney, of Rochelle, was host to the first meeting of the year here on Tuesday, October 11th.

The Dixon Music club is an organization whose members share the responsibility of concert giving at semi-monthly meetings during the evening. This is their third season. Music lovers from Dixon, Rock Falls, Ashton and Franklin Grove compose the group, of which Vincent Carney of Rochelle is president.

TWO-DAY VACATION.

Rochelle elementary and high schools enjoyed a two-day vacation and Thursday and Friday of last week when the teachers attended institutes held at Oregon and Dixon.

TAKE CAR BANDITS.

Harvey Jacobs and James Robbins of Racine, Wisconsin, were taken to Racine by Wisconsin police Friday following their arrest here by Chief of Police William Hungerford when they were found with a stolen car. Both boys are about 18 years of age and admitted that they had stolen the car in Racine. They abandoned the car which was parked on the highway in the west part of town when Officers Hungerford, Jacobson and Rogers investigated the suspicious circumstance and were arrested Thursday morning when they entered the Burlington depot.

CLASS FOR CHILDREN.

Mrs. John Carlson conducts a kindergarten every morning except Saturday and Sunday from 9 A. M. to 11 A. M. at her home for the purpose of preparing the youngsters for the first grade in school. The time is spent in story telling, dramatizing plays and singing songs. There is a rest period every morning and a light lunch, which usually includes a glass of milk or if it happens to be one of the youngsters' birthday Mrs. Carlson has a birthday cake.

Those attending include: Dickie Palmer, Carol Hills, Mary Anne Connolly, Paul Betz, Anna Michaelis, Malcom Bushnell, Patsy Hansen, Janet Hunt, Rita Nugent and Jimmie Reeser.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN.

Fred E. Gardner was the eree in the Northwestern-Illinois homecoming game at Champaign Saturday. Mrs. Gardner made the trip with Mr. Gardner.

Changes in the football schedule for Rochelle high school is as follows: Morrison here on Wednesday, November 2, instead of Saturday, November 4th. The Hubs will not Rock Falls there Friday, November 11, instead of November 12.

William Thorp has enrolled at the University of Kentucky, at Lexington, Kentucky.

Haise & Wadley have completed the new barn for Mrs. Grace Phelps located in Lynnville township. James L. Hunter is the tenant. A. W. Barnes is now engaged in painting the structure.

Miss Anna Guest, who has been visiting relatives and transacting business here for the past seven weeks left Sunday night for Jacksonville, Florida, to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. George W. Simons, Jr., and family.
